Four Arrested In Chase After Armed Robbery

HAYTI -- Four Champaign, Ill., men are being held in the New Madrid County jail in New Madrid awaiting transfer to Pemiscot County authorities in connection with the armed robbery Monday of Whitener service station on Highway 84.

Theodis Pettigrew, 17, Leroy Perry, 24, David Lee Palmer, 25, and his brother, Bill Joe Palmer, 17, were targets of a high-speed chase by highway patrolmen, which eventually led to an exchange of gunfire.

Paul Sheckell, 16, attendant at the service station, told authorities four Negro males came into the station at 5:15 p.m., held him at gunpoint , tied him up and got away with about $300 in a white Buick with Illinois license plates. The four were believed to have been traveling north on Interstate 55.

Shortly after the robbers left, Sheckell was released by several customers, and Hayti police were alerted.

At 6:20 p.m., Trooper J.M. Chrisman of the highway patrol spotted a white car answering the description of the getaway vehicle on Highway 61 north of New Madrid. Chrisman stopped the car and told the driver to get out. The driver started to get out then jumped back into the car, while another occupant of the car fired one or two shots at Chrisman, according to reports Trooper R.R. Ings of Charleston then joined Chrisman in pursuit of the car. Chrisman reportedly fired a riot gun at the car several times. The chase continued for about two miles until the fugitives drove into the driveway of a farm house and then into a field where the car stalled. The driver jumped from the car and ran, while the other three remained in the car.

Patrolman Robert Eddleman of Sikeston joined the other two patrolmen and aided in apprehending the fugitives.

Trooper Ings chased the fleeing driver about a quarter of a mile on foot before taking him into custody.

The patrol reported two guns and $307.30 were recovered.

No one was injured in the crossfire.

Station Attendant Robbed, Left In Trunk Of His Car

CHARLESTON — Three Negro males wearing wide - brimmed sombrero hats and sunglasses held up an attendant at Keith's service station one-half mile east of here on Highway 60 at 12:25 a.m. today. They escaped after locking the attendant, Opie Pehm, in the trunk of his car.

According to Keith Lee, owner, between $150 and $200 in cash and a .25 - calibre automatic pistol was taken. Also stolen was Pehm's watch, wedding ring and billfold. Lee said the men came in a side door of the station and all three were armed.

Pehm was struck on the head when he struggled with the men as they were putting him in the trunk. He was

Betterment Program To Be Reactivated

NEW MADRID — Plans are proceeding to reactivate the Missouri Community Betterment program in New Madrid through efforts spearheaded by F. M. Baird, president of the Chamber of Commerce, with cooperation and participation of the city's churches, youth groups, clubs, organizations and city officials.

At an organizational meeting, the Rev. Edward E. Wolfe, pastor of the Baptist Church, serving as chairman of the program, appointed committees to begin making community surveys along guidelines suggested by Jerry Shirley, southeast area specialist of MCB in Jefferson City.

A public relations committee was also appointed to get information to the citizens on the purposes and goals of the program, which include the five areas of transportation, utilities, education, industry and community services.

Under the program, a city may enter the annual MCB competition for cash awards' according to population. Upon achievement of goals in each area, the community is awarded a star. When a community achieves a star in each area, it is designated a five-star community or the top-rated community under the MCB program.

Those appointed in charge of compiling a profile of opinions on community betterment in all areas are Mrs. Glenn Dyke, R. T. Bartlett and Geneva Hunt.

A youth committee appointed to make a house to house canvass to distribute the opinion forms, both for adults and youths, include Cindi Phillips, chairman, and Fred Copeland, John Higgerson, Phillip Ransburgh, Susan Sharp and Kim St. Mary.

Public relations committee members are Mrs. Ben Caple, chairman Faye Hedgepeth, L. H. Recker, Harold Sloas and the Rev. Earl G. Statler.

Three Hurt In Semo Accidents

Two traffic accidents overnight resulted in three injuries to motorists traveling area roads and highways, the highway patrol reported today.

A car traveling south and driven by Donald Guemmer, 17, of Perryville ran off the road at 10:35 p.m. Monday and overturned on Interstate 55 outer road three miles west of Perryville. Injured in the accident was Randy Weith, 17, of Perryville. He suffered serious head injuries and a fractured skull. He was taken to Perry County Hospital in Perryville and later taken to St. John's Mercy Hospital in St. Louis.

Another accident was reported at 12:05 a.m. today on Highway 60 in Dexter when a car driven by Mildred Stelle, 60, of Poplar Bluff pulled from a service station driveway into the path of a vehicle traveling west and driven by Carl Burns, 25, of Danville, Ill. Injured in the accident were Burns, who suffered cuts on the chin, and a passenger, Richard Burns, 57, of Metcalf, Ill. Both were taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital in Dexter.

Hicks Placed On 1-Year Probation

Lewis Johnny Hicks, 20, of 240 Watson Street, was placed on one- year probation today in Magistrate Court for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

He was arrested July 8 while trying to leave town with a 13- year- old girl. He was picked up with another youth who had taken his stepfather's car without permission. Another teen-age girl was also picked up with them.

Part of the condition of Hicks' probation is that he stay away from the girl, according to Judge Lloyd Briggs.

Jimmy Dewane Pennington of Hot Springs, Ark., was given six months probation on charges of tampering with a motor vehicle.

He was stopped the night of June 26 by a policeman who thought he might need a place to sleep. The officer took him to the city jail and, as Pennington emptied his pockets, he pulled out a key ring belonging to Coca Cola Bottling Company.

The police then found the car that had been broken into parked in front of the bottling company.

Five people were ordered arrested for failure to appear in court. They are Charles Earle Stephenson, Route One, Box 273, charged with permitting an unlicensed driver to use his car; Freddie Brown, 1002 S. Locust, Charleston, no driver's license; Elva David Skinner, Bertrand Route One, improper vehicle registration; Gary Wayne Puckett, Radcliff St., Oran, defective brakes; Cecil Blane Hooper, Route Three, no driver's license.

Other cases before the court included: Danial Wells Moit, Box 91, Bertrand, careless and imprudent driving, placed on one- year probation. Marla Mona Bartlett, 217 Harrison Street in Miner, no driver's license, $25 and costs. Robert J. Shannon, 105 Alabama, no driver's license, $25 fine.

Rep. Pierce Withdraws From Race

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — State Rep. Robert Pierce, R-Cape Girardeau, announced today he is withdrawing from the race to hold his seat.

The 33-year-old attorney and former Cape Girardeau mayor said his reasons were personal, related to his family.

Pierce has been the only Republican seeking the office. His name will remain on the primary ballot because of his late withdrawal, but will not appear on the November ballot.

The only other candidate for the seat is Pat McKee, Democrat.

A new nominee for the GOP ticket will be decided by the local Legislative District Committee.

Pierce said he will serve out the present term.

Wheat Program Announced

Major provisions of the 1973 wheat program have been announced by Roy Proctor, chairman of the Scott County ASC Committee. They include the set aside required for participation, an option to voluntarily set aside additional acreage and the payment rate for the additional set aside.

To participate in the wheat program, a producer must set aside an acreage equal to 86 per cent of the farm's domestic wheat allotment.

In addition to the set aside required for participation, a producer may earn payment for setting aside additional acreage up to 150 per cent of his 1973 domestic wheat allotments at a payment rate of 88 cents per bushel. Producers who choose this option must agree to limit their total 1973 wheat program acreage planted for harvest. The limit will be their 1972 wheat program acreages plus the 1972 voluntary set aside minus the 1973 voluntary set-aside acreage. This option is aimed at encouraging retirement of additional land to prevent excessive wheat production.

There will be no acreage limitation for producers who set aside only the required 86 per cent.

"The announcement of voluntary set aside is being made much earlier than last year so the winter wheat producer can plan his wheat operation before investing any money in his 1973 crop," Proctor said.

Substitution provisions of the 1973 wheat program are identical to those in 1972 with corn, grain sorghum, barley or soybeans allowed for preservation of allotment history.

Producers will again receive preliminary payments after July 1, 1973, equal to 75 per cent of the estimated face value of the wheat certificate. Any remainder will be paid after December 1, 1973. Face value of the wheat certificate will again be the difference between 100 per cent of the July 1, 1973, parity and the national average market price received by farmers during the first five months of the marketing year. As in the past two years, a producer will earn certificate payments based on his domestic allotment times the farm's established yield, and producers are not required to plant wheat to earn certificate payments. However, failure to plant at least 90 per cent of the farm's 1973 domestic wheat allotment to either wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley or soybeans can result in reduction of allotment by as much as 20 per cent.

Substitution provisions allow acreage devoted to feed grain or soybeans to be considered planted to wheat to prevent loss of history and to quality for payments. Acreage devoted to wheat or soybeans will be considered planted to feed grains to preven loss of that base. This enables a producer to plant the combination of wheat, feed grain or soybeans that best fits his operation and preserve his planting history and program benefits.

Other provisions of the 1973 wheat program, unchanged from 1971 and 1972, include the requirement that farmers maintain their conserving base requirements as well as set-aside acreage.

ASCS county offices will notify wheat producers of their domestic allotment and the applicable set aside for their farms.

Arguments In Bond Case Set Thursday

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo (AP) — A federal court suit seeking to overthrow Missouri's 10-year residency requirement, the basis of a challenge in the state Supreme Court to the candidacy of state Auditor Christopher Bond, has been filed in federal court in St. Louis.

Bond, Republican candidate for nomination to the governor's race, was in the Supreme Court chambers when filing of the St. Louis suit was announced.

He said he did not know about it until it was prepared, but said, "it was filed in my behalf, so naturally I will support it."

The high court, in Jefferson City, recessed a hearing on Bond's residency until 9 a. m. Wednesday at the request of Bond's attorney, F. William McCalpin. Chief Justice James A. Finch Jr. set 10:30 a. m. Thursday for arguments. After that, the court will take the case under advisement and deliver an opinion.

State Rep. R. J. "Bus" King Jr., R-Clayton, one of Bond's opponents for the GOP nomination, also attended the session. He filed the suit, contending Bond lived in other states from 1960-68 and that Bond's name should be removed from the Aug. 8 primary ballot.

The constitutionality question also was brought out in the Supreme Court case when Bond's attorneys filed a motion to quash King's suit on the grounds that the 10-year requirement is unconstitutional. The motion had not been acted upon.

Finch indicated a ruling on the entire case could be expected Friday or Saturday.

Bond was elected auditor in 1970. The state Constitution says candidates for governor and auditor must have lived in the state 10 full years before the election. McCalpin said he would contest every point in King's suit. Bond has said he would not deny living outside the state but has said that he has never voted in another state.

Among those filing the St. Louis suit was Ethan A. H. Shepley, a Republican candidate for governor in 1964 and a former Washington University chancellor. He also is St. Louis County co-chairman for Bond's campaign.

The suit was filed by Albert E. Schoenbeck, a St. Louis County lawyer.

The plaintiffs contend that the 10-year residency requirement violates the equal protection and due process clauses of the U. S. Constitution. They also argue that the reuidency rule violates constitutional rights to travel and to vote.

The plaintiffs said they wanted to retain the right to vote for Bond in the primary and said the 10-year rule was "unreasonable and not necessary to promote a compelling government interest."

The suit was filed against the St. Louis County election board, representing all election board members and county clerks in the state. The same defendants also were named in King's Supreme Court suit.

Judge William H. Webster of U. S. District Court requested Chief Judge W. C. Matthes of the 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals to create a three-judge panel to hear the case.

One of the plaintiffs, John C. Shapleigh, a student, attached to the suit a copy of an absentee ballot he received from the St. Louis County election board with Bond's name blocked out. Shapleigh said he was deprived of his right to vote for Bond.

About a dozen names had been stamped out Friday before a telegram from the chief justice in Jefferson City ordered that Bond's name remain on the ballot until the Supreme Court suit is settled.

Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick told the high court that Boone County, which needed the go ahead by Wednesday, will be affected by a delay in the case. In Boone County, about 30,000 paper ballots would have to be changed if Bond is ordered off the ballot. he said.

Vandalism Suspects Arrested

ADVANCE — Jackie Payne, 19, of Route One and Sammy Jones, 19, of Route Two were arrested Monday night by Marshal Ken Long after admitting vandalizing the Advance elementary school Thursday night.

The two entered the building by breaking a window. They then opened gallon cans of food and scattered the food throughout the building. Officials estimated the damage at $500.

Payne and Jones are being held in Stoddard County jail in Bloomfield.

Illinois Woman Held In Theft Of Melons

CHARLESTON — A charge of stealing is expected to be filed today against Helen Poe, 26, of Alto Pass, Ill., who is being held in Mississippi County jail in connection with the theft of a pickup truck load of watermelons Monday afternoon from the Robert Burke farm southeast of East Prairie.

According to Deputy Sheriff Everett Holley, the woman was arrested Monday night in East Prairie by Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie, and several of her companions are still being sought.

She will be arraigned before Magistrate T. J. Brown, Jr., Thursday.

Howardville To Break Ground For New Co-op

HOWARDVILLE — Groundbreaking ceremonies will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday for the first community- owned rural supermarket in the state at the Howardville Area Cooperative Enterprise property on Highway 61.

The cooperative supermarket project was started early in 1971, essentially as a self- help endeavor, to provide the community of 500 with a full- service convenient grocery shopping facility.

To most of the residents, who are above retirement age and living on fixed incomes from Social Security or welfare, the problem of transportation and expense to neighboring communities of New Madrid and Portageville to buy fresh meats, vegetables and daily products is critical.

With assistance from Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministry, the local HACE Corporation was formed after receiving a $325 grant for initial organizational expenses and incorporation fees from the Springfield-Cape Girardeau Roman Catholic Diocese's portion of the Human Development Fund.

Area residents, soon after the corporation was formed, began making pledges for stock which now total $1,500 to purchase a 2.6-acre site. In September 1971, the effort was further boosted when a $10,000 grant to HACE was made by the national Campaign for Human Development.

Mrs. Willa Mae Brown, HACE treasurer, said the corporation has $22,000 and additional commitments for a total of $36,000. This includes a $5,000 donation from Ralston Purina Company and a $10,000 loan from that company, which is to be repaid in three years.

Construction of a 5,000-square foot model building is expected to begin soon after a building contract is approved.

Mayor Willie B. Hamilton, representives of MDEM, Ralston Purina Co., United Auto Workers, American Life Insurance Co., and HACE board of directors and stockholders will participate in the groundbreaking ceremonies.

HACE board of directors include Mayor Hamilton, chairman; Mrs. Brown, treasurer; Clemmon Duff, secretary; and Bill Cooper, Tom Jennings, Eddie Long and Jack White.

Andy Matz To Manage Burger King

Andy Matz

Early November has been set as tentative opening date of Sikeston Burger King. The new eating facility will be located at East Malone and Elm Street, the former location of Nailling Truck and Tractor Company.

Andy Matz, a 21- year resident of Sikeston currently in training at Burger King in Cape Girardeau, will be the manager. Matz was meat department manager for a food chain store for 20 years before accepting the Burger King job.

A spokesman for Drury Enterprises of Cape Girardeau, owner of several Burger King franchises and other businesses in the area, said there will be room to seat from 75 to 80 in the dining area. Curb service also will be available at 60 parking spaces.

Schantz Says He Could Unify State

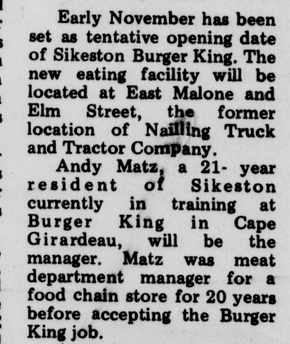
SPRINGFIELD — Leroy Schantz considers himself the "A- typical" candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. He feels he is the only candidate who can unite urban and rural Missourians behind one program which will serve the entire state.

The main concerns in Schantz's platform deal with restoring credibility and integrity to the executive branch of government and aiding the economy by broadening the tax base through more tourism promotion, initial location incentives to attract clean industry and better manpower utilization and employment policies.

Schantz, a Bootheel native, was born in 1918 to George and Bertha Schantz, at Dexter where he attended the elementary and high schools.

Schantz received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from the University of Missouri in 1940 and a master of science degree in public administration in 1966.

His political experience includes two years as assistant county agent in Newton and Chaiton counties; 12 years as recorder of deeds in Greene county; four years as state director of Missouri Division of Employment Security; six years in U. S. Department of Labor, Manpower Administration, U. S. Training and Employment Service; one and one- half years as chief of the division of Immigration; and four and one- half years as chief of the Division of Human Resources Development. He also served four and one- half years in the Army Air Corps during World War II.



Leroy Schantz

Schantz, who now lives in Springfield, is married to the former Peggy Landis of Neosho. They have three married children and two grandchildren.

Other activities include American Legion, Masonic Lodge, Exalted Ruler of Elks Lodge No. 409 and elder of the Presbyterian Church.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Every man thinks his charges are reasonable.

* * *

SOMETHING NEW

Whether describing a political candidate or corn flakes, there is one familiar adjective: NEW. It is Madison Avenue's sine que non. The new politician comes from a new acting studio, not the old smoke-filled room. The new morality is really the old immorality. The new freedom is old promiscuity. The new marriage is the old Roman orgy.

The permissive society (Arlington House) by Dr. Boris Sokoloff, traces the relationship of today's hippies, drugs and incontinence to Freud, concluding that the Austrian "took the individual off the hook of moral responsibility." Yes, the new morality, so highly touted by liberals, is really re-hashed Freud.

Freud, like Lenin, was a strident atheist who wrote vituperative attacks on Christianity. In fact, one purpose of Freud's psychoanalysis was to rid man of the "neuroses of religion."

Example after example is given by Dr. Sokoloff to show that modern liberalism is merely corrupt Freud. Its ethics are contaminated with permissiveness that vitiates it.

But there is hope. Dr. Sokoloff, author of some two dozen books and an internationally famous biologist philosopher, disproves many of Freud's theses with modern science. Religious rebirth among Western nations, especially their youth, is another reason for hope.

"The misery of man and the death of all that is decent in society is unavoidable if we reject God's guidance in our affairs and deny the immorality of the soul," writes the author. He thinks that American liberalism is dying and that the old morality still has a chance.

Anyone interested in the origins of modern permissiveness, its workings and its vulnerability will want to read this scholarly study.

THE DOOMSDAY
SYNDROME

Fear of worldwide catastrophe is one of the byproducts of the nuclear age. But now John Maddox, editor of the British scientific journal, Nature, has suggested that all the fashionable gloom - and -doom talk may be overwrought. In a new book, The Doomsday Syndrome, Maddox contends that ecology is a state of mind which assumes that the worst is always about to happen. He adds that this "doomsday syndrome may in itself be as much a hazard as any of the conundrums which society has created for itself."

In support of his argument, Maddox cites some dire predictions that fell flat. He recalls that Paul Ehrlich wrote in The Population Bomb (1968) that, "The battle to feed all humanity is over. In the 1970s the world will undergo famines; hundreds of millions of people are going to starve to death in spite of any crash programs embarked on now." Maddox maintains that the green revolution has laid that scarecrow to rest. He also quotes Barry Commoner, who asserted in Science and Survival (1963) that "Lake Erie has already been overwhelmed by pollutants and has in effect died." A decade later, Maddox observes, thousands of tons of fish are being harvested from the lake on a commercial basis.

Many British environmentalists are bitterly attacking Maddox for issuing such a long and, in their view, unscholarly complaint. On the other hand, he has found some unexpected allies. The London Daily Express supported his argument in an editorial that stated: "You don't cure problems by exaggerating them." And at last month's U.N. Conference on the Human Environment in Stockholm, the head of the Chinese delegation declared: "On the question of the human environment there is no ground for any negative view."

Historian Philip Toynbee, writing in the London Observer, noted that, "A very large number of informed scientists and reputable economists is now predicting that a combination of pollution, exhaustion of natural resources and population explosion will make world catastrophe inevitable unless dramatic and unprecedented international action can be taken in the next few years." Maddox's retort is that "the most serious danger in the environmental movement is that it may sap the will of advanced communities to face the problems which no doubt lie ahead."

Arthur Burns, the pipe-smoking Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, nearly fell off his father - image pedestal and nearly lost his cool when U. S. Rep. Wright Patman suggested — unthinkable! — an audit of the Federal Reserve. Patman said the Federal Reserve's securities dealings are subsidized through low interest rates which result in "windfall profits." Patman charged on, saying Fed dealers are getting valuable inside information and the Fed's securities operations and statistics are chaotic. Referring to a nickel- dime report on the Fed by the Government Accounting Office, Burns fired back with, "The GAO did not find the reporting system chaotic. I have no objection whatsoever to a financial audit ... if legislation were to specify that the GAO audit were confined simply to the kind of work auditors do. I would have objection to having the GAO begin commentating and advising on monetary policy." He denied that Fed security dealers were getting inside information, a statement as indefensible as his conditions for an audit.

The Czechs seem restless these days, to the point of openly agitating for their freedom. But the effort is certainly hard on the journalists. They keep getting arrested. Jiri Lederer disappeared recently, then on Feb. 2 was sentenced to two years in prison for critical references in Listy, the Czech Writer's journal, to former Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka. Jeri Hochman, former editor of the Czechoslovak Journalist Union Reporter was arrested, as was Vladimir Nepras, a former journalist with the Czech Communist newspaper Rude Pravo. But the Communists were being democratic about the jailings: party officers and professional scientists were also taken into custody. They were Karel Kaplan, a scientists; Jiri Littera, former secretary of the Prague Communist Central Committee, and Karel Bratosek, a historian. The arrests seemed to be connected with action by the Czech Communists against three radio and television writers living in Italy. One was a Czech, Jiri Pelikan, now living in Rome, who had "written materials and instructions to Czechoslovakia inciting hostile individuals and groups to anti-state activities." Another Italian had acted as Pelikan's courier and the third, a former staffer of an Italian Communist newspaper, had committed the crime of "speaking" to Communist officials in Czechoslovakia.

GERMAN ROAD BUILDING
PROGRAM REFUTES U. S.
HIGHWAY CRITICS

Lately, a few professional critics have taken pot-shots at Uncle San's highway building program. They accuse some of wanting to turn the nation into a "ribbon of concrete" and, knowing what's best for everyone else, they vaguely hint that perhaps Americans really shouldn't have the best highway system in the world, after all.

Arguments for a good highway system are so obvious, however, that highway critics are having difficulty making much headway. Certainly, their ideas have made no headway in West Germany where the Bonn government's Ministry of Traffic and Transportation has announced a 15-year road construction program of a magnitude unknown anywhere in the world outside of the United States.

The plan calls for providing West German motorists with thousands of miles of freeways and four-lane expressways by 1985. The program is necessary because there will be about 20 million passenger cars in West Germany in 15 years -- about one for every three inhabitants. (It's an approximate one-to-two ratio in the U.S.).

When the highway building program is completed, no town in Germany will be more than 10 miles from a freeway system. The average will be six miles and in such densley populated areas as the Ruhr, one will never be more than three miles from a freeway.

The program has important aims other than the lessening of overall traffic congestion. Highway systems will be designed to provide better and speedier transportation between various German industrial regions and neighboring countries. They will provide easy access to popular tourists and recreation areas, and also will be designed in such a manner as to provide increased mobility -- and therefore increased job opportunity -- to German citizens in economically -depressed areas.

Highways provide mobility -- and therefore increased freedom -- to everyone. That highway transportation is America's favorite means of transportation is beyond question. A recent professional poll found that 88 per cent of Americans consider the private automobile the "Ideal mode of transportation" for every trip except business trips of more than 500 miles.

Those among us who would restrict our national highway building program -- for whatever reason -- are doing a disservice to the nation, and to each one of us who use our highways, too.

NEW YORK (AP) — Can you still tell the sexes apart?

At first glance?

If you can, you're a marvel. More people are finding it more difficult in more cases.

About half the people over 30 today can't tell easily the sex of about a third of the people they meet who are under 30. In many cases they are still mystified after they follow a doubtful glance with two long stares.

Well, here are a few helpful hints:

If it works as an attendant in a men's room, it is a him. If it works as an attendant in a powder room, it is a her.

Does it sing aloud in the bathroom? Probably it's a guy. Does it hum while sitting at a dressing table and studying its face? It's a gal.

If, when asked at a cocktail party whether it wants another drink, it replies, "Yeah, another belt won't hurt me," put it down as a fellow. If it smiles dimly and says as it holds out its glass, "Well, just a teentsyweentsy bit this time," put it down as another thirsty dame with hollow legs.

You say it warms its hands by putting them in its pockets? It has to be a boy. You say it warms its hands by thrusting them under its arms and hunching its shoulders? It has to be a girl.

Does it hate to write a check for under $25. That's a man. Does it like to write checks for three 8-cent stamps and a 79cent bottle of hand lotion? That's a woman.

Does it assume a hedgehog defense and make menacing hisses if you say something slighting about the women's liberation movement? Beyond doubt it's another embattled femme. If it immediately loses interest or wants to change the subject when you mention the women's liberation movement, beyond doubt it's another cowed male.

A direct actionist can settle his uncertainty most quickly by simply walking up to a strange person and asking simply, "Hey, what sex are you—if any?" If he gets punched in the jaw, it's a man; if he gets slapped in the face, it's a woman.

LIFTING MEAT
IMPORT QUOTAS

President Nixon's decision to suspend the import quotas on meats "to counter recent rises in the cost of meat" is likely to be more a psychological factor than a real one.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz concedes that "increased supplies from abroad will not have an immediate effect in reducing prices in the supermarkets." In fact, the action is not likely to increase the supply of meats appreciably. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz already has said "meat import supplies just aren't there" because "worldwide meat demand has escalated in relation to supply."

The European Common Market has become an extremely competitive market for the exports of Argentina, Australia and New Zealand. The United Kingdom takes all the Irish beef and Canadians are consumg more of their own beef.

The world situation is so tight that everywhere cattle producers are holding back cows and heifers that might go to slaughter in order to use them for breeding.

There just are no easy or immediate answers to the meat problem that both consumerrs and producers are likely to accept at this time.

The only real solution to high demand and short supplies of meat are encouragement of producers to breed more livestock. That is a long- range solution. And such encouragement comes only through producers getting higher prices for what they are producing now. It is a phase we all must live through.

American industry has sounded a "call to arms." At the first assembly of the newly formed Council of Better Business Bureaus, business leaders stated that they are embarking on a crusade with the help of the BBB Council as the voluntary guardian of ethical business practices.

The group aims at narrowing the gap between the promise and the performance by making business more responsive to the valid demands of consumers. It also wants to demonstrate that free enterprise can operate in the public interest more effectively than government agencies.

Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans told the assembly, "You are taking this new action to insure integrity in the marketplace and reliability in business services...The greatest asset of the American enterprise system is the confidence of the consumer...There is nothing basically wrong with our free market or competitive system; all we have to do is to continue the orderly process of perfecting it."

The new council's objectives in helping solve consumer problems will include upgrading and expanding local bureaus; opening new regional offices; updating and strengthening self-regulatory guidelines for advertisers; expanding consumer education programs; creating additional mediation panels to settle consumers' disputes; and developing a computerized consumer information data bank.

Elisha Gray, II, chairman, of the council and chairman of the Whirlpool Corporation, said that, although business is confronted with one of its greatest challenges, the BBB Council has the vehicle to meet that challenge successfully.

SOVIET SPACE WEAPONS?

The disarmament treaty signed in Moscow has been hailed by many as a great step toward peace. But the well-known past record of Soviet disregard of treaties should dampen such enthusiasm. In fact, evidence is currently mounting that the Kremlin has chosen to ignore another recent disarmament agreement.

Five years ago, the Soviets and other space powers promised not to "place in orbit around the earth any objects carrying nuclear weapons or any other kind of weapons of mass destruction." But Dr. Charles Sheldon, chief of the science policy research division at the Congressional Research Service, has revealed that the promise is very probably being broken.

In a 78-page report recently released by the Senate Committee on Aeronautical and Space Sciences, Sheldon pointed out that the Soviets are developing at least three different military space systems. Two of these were previously known to our government: the fractional orbital bombardment system and an inspector destroyer program.

The real danger comes from a third program, a new weapons system which would be launched into orbit by the SS-9 missiles. So far the Soviets have made eleven tests of this system.

The space expert admits that we don't know as much as we should about what the Soviets are doing, but concludes, "Instead of an irrational jumble of inconsistencies, we see there is an orderly pattern even if we do not know its purpose." Mr. Sheldon may not want to say publicly what the purpose is, but there could be only one: a further strengthening of the Soviet offensive arsenal. HLH.

Inside Labor Third Ticket Certain: 'American Party' Chiefs Vow to Run Presidential Slate With or Without Wallace
By Victor Riesel

RICHMOND, Va. --That old Golden Gloves boxing champ, George Wallace, won't come out of his neutral corner of the Democratic Party this campaign. Neither will he bolt the organization. But his American Party will move back into the political ring, name a Presidential ticket without him and fight for his conservative crown.

That's how a top American Party leader, headquartered here, put it the other day. They do expect to have Gov. Wallace's support and even some of his Democratic Party machinery. But "with or without the governor" there's going to be a ticket fielded at their national convention opening in Louisville's (Ky.) Freedom Hall at 10 a.m., August 3. Count on that, it was said the conservative consortium national headquarters in this city.

Actually the American Party, born as the American Independent Party which piled up 9.9 million ballots, 13.5 per cent of the total national vote, for Mr. Wallace in '68, is a coalition. In New York, it's known as the Courage Party because the word American can be used only for the defunct Communist -infested American Labor Party. In Ohio, it is the American Independent Party. In other states it is the Conservative Party.

Here it is led by a swift-talking, accommodating public relations chap, Alexander Hudgins, the coalition's executive director, and T. Cole Andrews, Jr., its national chairman. And they're looking forward to a heated convention, heated contests and sharp debate when the delegations arrive by chartered plane from California, 180 delegates; and by care and train from New York, 82 delegates: and 104 from Illinois, for example, one of who offered Mayor Daley his seat.

There are favorite sons competing for Wallace's toga. One in Florida, some in California and a Cleveland lawyer, Richard B. Kay, who was a civilian consultant to Lt. Calley's legal defense team during the military trial which startled the world.

In all there'll be some 2,000 delegates--and until they gather in Louisville for their political derby, it will be difficult to sketch a profile of the average delegate. But hundreds of them will be working people. There will be a strong labor contingent. At least 102 delegates will be representing Michigan where Wallace whirled up some 810,000 votes in the May 16 primary.

To them the issue will be stop the busing far more than stop the war. And they want a cut in taxes. They're not aboriginals, as the fashion is to paint them. For example, quite to the contrary, two state leaders can match the labor record of many at the Democratic National Convention. One is Charles Ryan, a full-time construction worker living in Camillus, N.Y., near Syracust. He's state chairman. And he heads the American Party's labor committee.

And he is recording secretary of Steamfitters Local 818.

Ryan passes you on to Arthur Cain, American Independent Party state chairman of Ohio.

Cain, after criticizing the Associated Press story which reported George Wallace as accepting the American Party's National Convention invitation, talks of the Ohio organization's labor strength. The headquarters are in offices run by the Rank and File Labor For Wallace committee under the guidance of one Willie Murphree. No novice is he inside labor. Until recently he was president of the United Auto Workers (UAW) Otis Local 451 in that city.

This labor strength is reminiscent of 1968 when Wallace suddenly showed up with enough support to force the national AFL-CIO to put out some 50 million leaflets against him. Now Leonard Woodcock's auto union is might chary of suddenly defying the 810,000 Michigan Wallace votes. When the auto union chiefs met Thursday, they voted to recommend support of George McGovern--and to run a series of rank and file meetings for a consensus. The UAW officialdom took one defeat last May and is not about to smash its political action machinery into another stone wall.

This American Party coalition, a network of affiliates, is almost charismatic working--class districts. It is on the ticket, the national officials here say, in 38 states from the Pacific palisades of Washington, Oregon, and California to the oil tank industrialism of New Jersey and the New England mill states.

They want a voice. They want a leader. They know that Gov. Wallace has told both George McGovern and Hubert Humphrey he will not bolt the party. This was the reason for the cheers of the McGovern youth delegates when the Democratic candidate in his acceptance speech said: "We pray for your speedy and full recovery, so you can stand up and speak out forcefully for all those who see you as their champion." McGovern and the convention interpreted this as standing up inside the Democratic Party.

So the American Party is on its own. Without George Wallace it may or may not roll up a vote. Or it may draft him and force him to deny them. But whatever happens it will be a force--but against which major candidate no one should be cocky enough to predict. It could draw enough votes away from either candidate, depending on the mood, to swing some states and perhaps the national election.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- George McGovern has only one chance in five of upsetting President Nixon in the November election.

These are the carefully researched odds of Jimmy the Greek Snyder, the famed Las Vegas oddsmaker, who prepares his political prognostications exclusively for us.

Off the cuff, he rated the President a 4-to-1 favorite on the eve of McGovern's nomination. But now Jimmy has completed a careful comparison of the two candidates, using a point system to rate them.

He has assessed their advantages and disadvantages in three categories: Support, issues and image. Here are Jimmy's calculations:

SUPPORT -- He gives Nixon an 8-to-3 advantage in financial support; 10-to-1, foreign support; 10-to-1, Republicans; 10-to-2, Big Business; 7-to-3, Jewish Americans; 6-to-4, independents; 5-to-4, labor; 5-to-4 women. McGovern is ahead 7-to-3 with youth, 6-to-3 with Democrats and 6-to-3 with minorities. All total led, Nixon has a 70-to-40 advantage.

ISSUES -- Rating how the two candidates stand with the public on the issues, Jimmy believes the President has a 10-to-2 edge over McGovern on foreign affairs; 10-to-2, business; 6-to-1, military; 7-to-3, busing; and 9-to-7, law and order. Jimmy rates both candidates even, 7-to7, on their economic proposals. McGovern is given a 9-to-6 advantage on welfare; 10-to-8, farm subsidies; 9-to-7, federal spending; and 3-to-2, revenue sharing. Summed up, Nixon comes out 72-to-53 ahead of McGovern.

IMAGE -- Although President Nixon has had image troubles, Jimmy rates him higher than McGovern in all categories, as follows: 10-to-7, recognition; 9-to-5, politician; 7-to-5 credibility; 7-to-5, charisma; 7-to-6, intelligence; and 9-to-8, religion. The total Nixon edge is 49-to-37.

By Jimmy's evaluation, Nixon is a 5-to-1 favorite to be re-elected.

CHOU REMEMBERS

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai is still smarting over the late John Foster Dulles's refusal to shake hands with him in 1954.

It happened in Geneva, where the major powers were carving Indochina into spheres of influence. Chou walked toward Dulles and held out his hand. Dulles hesitated, then clasped his hands behind his back.

The Secretary of State muttered, "I cannot," and stalked out of the room.

The slight contributed to 20 years of Chinese-American hostility. Had better relations been achieved, the Korean and Vietnam wars probably could have been avoided.

The Dulles rebuff still burns inside old Chou. He recalled the incident during his recent visit with House leaders Hale Boggs, D-La., and Gerald Ford, R-Mich., in Peking.

Smiling, Chou said that at least Dulles's No. 2 man, Undersecretary Bedell Smith, was a gentleman. Smith held a teapot in his right hand so he had an excuse not to shake hands, recalled Chou. Still, Smith reached over with his left hand and grasped the Chinese Premier's arm.

UGLY RUSSIAN

The best-selling book, "The Ugly American," catalogued the graceless way American officials abroad administered foreign aid in the 1960s.

Now a sequel could be written about the Ugly Russian. From Cairo, for example, the U.S. mission reports that the Russians have alienated their hosts unnecessarily as the Americans did in postwar years.

The Russians have strutted about Egypt as if they were the rulers rather than the guests. The typical Ugly Russian shops in Russian commissaries, attends Russian movies and goes to Russian parties.

He travels to work on roads that are off limits to the Egyptians. Even President Sadat, according to one report, was stopped from visiting a Soviet naval facility. He had to go through the Russian embassy, finally, to get into a naval base in his own country.

Russian military advisers are also inclined to belittle the Egyptian army. To the Ugly Russian, an Egyptian is at best inefficient at worst a coward.

This arrogant, domineering attitude toward the Egyptians is one reason Sadat is now kicking most of them out.

Footnote: Sadat's decision to oust the Russian advisers was triggered by his secret correspondence with Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev. Sadat had requested more sophisticated weapons from the Russians. Instead, Brezhnev sent a letter urging a continued cease fire. He sought to restrain the Egyptians from precipitating another war with Israel. So Sadat told the Russian advisers to get out.

Ironically, President Nixon's inner circle were overjoyed with the news. Now they are having sober second thoughts. A secret intelligence analysis warns that Sadat's expulsion of the Russians removes their restraining influence and may signal renewed hostilities with the Isrealis.

Senate Votes To Stop Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — After voting for the first time to force U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, the Senate has killed the military-foreign-aid bill to which the pullout provision was attached.

In the last of 10 votes that stretched into late Monday night, the $1.785-billion aid authorization was defeated 48 to 42.

By a 50-45 margin, senators voted to cut off funds for U.S. combat operations in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia in four months, provided American war prisoners were released.

The aid bill was the first step in continuing for this fiscal year the U.S. military-aid program for friendly nations. But the Senate vote does not necessarily mean the program is dead.

The House has yet to act on a military-aid authorization; it could send the Senate another version to consider. Or the Senate Foreign Relations Committee could report another aid bill for Senate consideration.

Late last year the Senate defeated the economic-foreign-aid measure for fiscal 1972, only to see it revived in an eleventhhour compromise with the House.

Backers of the end-the-war amendment have vowed to renew the fight. Their next effort will be to attach the amendment to the Defense Department procurement bill now being debated.

In past months the Senate has gone on record several times against continuation of the war, but never has either house voted to cut off money for the fighting.

The aid bill was defeated by an unusual coalition of conservatives and liberals.

ROAD FROM BASELINE GIN to the Morley grade school has been blacktopped with property owners paying proportionate shares. The road will be blacktopped from the gin to the Blodgett road when completed. At a meeting with Louis Hirschowitz, second district county court judge, property owners agreed to pay $3,200 of the required $4,500.

V A Hospitals In State To Share Government Grant

POPLAR BLUFF — The Poplar Bluff Veterans Administration hospital is among four Missouri VA hospitals who have been chosen to share in more than $3.8 million earmarked by the Veterans Administration for improving services.

The announcement also affecting VA hospitals at St. Louis, Kansas City and Columbia, was made by Donald E. Johnson, administrator of veterans affairs, who appeared Sunday before the American Legion's Missouri department.

Johnson announced allocations for Missouri VA hospital at a news conference following his address to the Legionnaire convention in Kansas City.

The Poplar Bluff hospital will receive $477,000 for a pulmonary function laboratory — used for monitoring purposes — and a respiratory care center. The St. Louis hospital will received $2.4 million — more than $1 million going for a new spinal cord injury center. About $750,000 will be for improvements in geriatric care and $65,000 for development of a hypertension screening and treatment center.

The Kansas City hospital will receive $815,000 for a hemodialysis unit and home dialysis training. The newly activated hospital at Columbia will receive about $700,000. Between $300,000 and $400,000 will be used for a cardiac catheterization unit, $72,500 for speech pathology service, $87,000 for a mental hygiene clinic and $142,000 for an electron microscope.

In his speech to the Legionnaires, Johnson told them, "America's living veteran population has grown 3 million in the past three years to an all-time high of nearly 29 million."

"Three years ago VA expenditures in Missouri totaled $197 million — $118 million of which was disability and death compensation and pension payments to disabled veterans and the dependents of deceased veterans. In the fiscal year just ended, VA expenditures in Missouri totaled $721 million."

Johnson reported the VA budget has grown from $7.5 billion to $12.5 billion since fiscal 1969, when he became administrator.

Viets Take Citadel

QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) — About 400 South Vietnamese paratroopers fought their way into the Quang Tri Citadel today through withering North Vietnamese fire.

Despite official claims in Saigon that the paratroopers had won control of the Citadel and the recapture of Quang Tri City was completed, fighting raged in the 19th century fortress through late afternoon. "Not all of the Citadel is occupied yet," an army spokesman in Quang Tri said.

The spokesman, Lt. Col. Do Dang Bo, told newsmen: "I think many North Vietnamese were killed. I do not think any escaped. I hope that perhaps tomorrow you will be able to attend a flag-raising ceremony in the Citadel."

The Citadel was the last bastion of resistance in the devastated provincial capital which the North Vietnamese had occupied on May 1.

An army communique said the first paratroopers entered the Citadel at 10:20 a.m.

Field officers said napalm strikes by the South Vietnamese air force preceded the advance through two openings in the 40-foot walls that U. S. planes had blasted two weeks ago with laser - guided bombs.

Shells burst all around the Citadel as South Vietnamese artillery blazed away, and the North Vietnamese replied with their 122 mm and 133mm guns. A pall of thick, black smoke hung over most of the city, which was in ruins.

Most of the North Vietnamese defenders of Quang Tri had retreated into the Citadel to make a stand there, but no reliable estimate was available of how many of Hanoi's troops were inside the massive walls.

Morley Takes Town Survey

MORLEY — Mayor Olivia Lee today praised the Community Betterment Club for initiating the "community attitude survey" to be taken in the Morley area and urged full cooperation by every citizen.

"This is a great opportunity for Morley, Mrs. Lee stated. "It can be the basis for future growth and prosperity in our community through the interest and efforts of the people in general.

"This is a time for constructive criticism. Not everyone's views on every subject covered by the questionnaire will agree, but I certainly hope that every view will reflect the honest, objective thinking of the people."

The survey is part of a community bettermen program in which the community will work with the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

It is a series of 32 questions covering various areas of the community. The people surveyed will be asked to rate the community as "poor, satisfactory or excellent."

The survey findings can then be used as a guide for improvement projects.

Police Make Three Arrests In Charleston

CHARLESTON — Three arrests were reported by the police department Monday night.

Billy B. Williams, 27, of Charleston was fined $108 for driving while intoxicated. Johnny Jones, 23, of Charleston was fined $16 for public intoxication and Larry D. Coleman 17, of Charleston had a $15 fine stayed and was placed on one year probation. He was charged with refusing to obey the reasonable request of an officer.

Dexter Group Reads Water Project Bids

DEXTER — Seventeen separate sealed bids were opened and read Monday night during a special City Council meeting attended by a large crowd of contractors.

The contracts for water facility improvements will be studied and tabulated for awarding at a later date by C. R. Trotter and Associate, Incorporated, consulting engineers.

A 1972 tax levy was approved by the council at $2.55 per $100 assessed valuation. This shows an increase of 38 cents per $100 valuation over last year's tax levy of $2.17. Mayor Willis Conner pointed out the increase included three bond issues for a new fire station and equipment, sewage system improvement and water works improvements voted by city residents.

Council members agreed this was far from the expected 45- cent increase as publicized at the time the bond issues were voted on.

Mayor Conner reported on his recent trip to the board of director meeting of the Missouri Municipal League in Jefferson City. He outlined the main points of recommendations to be made by the league to the next session of the state legislature.

Mayor Conner also reported on a solid waste advisory committee meeting held July 18 at Kennett. He said a deadline date of June 30, 1973, has been set, after which cities and counties must have permits to dispose of solid waste.

Two ordinances were passed by the council approving special tax bills for the paving of two blocks of East Elk and two blocks of East Oak streets.

A plumbing license was approved for William DePriest.

Fire Damages Truck Bed

Firemen were called to extinquish a fire on a garbage truck at 11:50 a.m. Monday on Highway 61 North near Northside Church of Christ.

The fire was caused after material from a hot trash barrel was poured into the back of the truck. Damage was confined to the bed. The truck is owned by Maynard Eberly.

Lilbourn Man Robbed At Knife Point

NEW MADRID — Robert H. Lee, Jr., of Lilbourn reported to city police this morning that he was robbed of $107 at knife-point by two men when he left a Greyhound bus at 3:12 a.m. at the bus stop on Highway 61.

Lee, who boarded the bus in St. Louis, said the driver was unaware the two were holding a knife to his back when they offered to help Lee leave the bus. After taking his money, Lee said the pair returned to the bus which left for Memphis, and he failed to get his suitcase.

Car Stolen At School

A yellow 1965 Ford belonging to Sharon Allen, 406 South Allen in Bernie, was stolen over the weekend from the parking lot at Sikeston Senior High School, according to police.

The car was left at the school to have repairs made at the automotive shop. It was missing on Monday.

Malden City Council Talks On Annexation

MALDEN — At a city council meeting Monday night council members discussed annexations, parking meters and heard a request from the senior citizens group.

Council members agreed to drop all annexation suits and to file new suits to bring the Stokes- Cohen Addition west of the city and the Don Gregory addition southwest of the city.

No action was taken on installing parking meters on South Decatur Street from Main to Laclede streets and from West Laclede street to the alley west of Beckwith street and on the east side of Beckwith street between Main and Laclede streets.

Senior citizens were given permission to sell soup and sandwiches at their clubhouse at noon every day and to have a luncheon once a month.

Council members agreed to have City Attorney Gordon Fritz draw up necessary papers to abandon an alley on South Beckwith street running to the compress. The property will be sold to Ira Green who owns property adjoining the alley.

The four taxi cab operators in town will be allowed to rent a parking meter space on the corners of Laclede and Madison Streets at $20 per month for each taxi.

In other business a motion was made to buy more chat for the street department to use in blacktopping.

Hancock Stays On Ballot

CENTERVILLE, Mo. (AP) — State Rep. Don Hancock, DDoniphan won a court fight Monday to have his name placed on the Aug. 8 primary ballot for re-election in the 153rd District.

Judge Herbert Lasky of St. Louis County Circuit Court ruled in favor of Hancock on a suit challenging the four-term legislator's residency. The case was heard in Reynolds County.

Walter Baker of Ellington contended in the suit that Hancock and his family lived in Jefferson City for 21 months while Hancock was representing the Southeast Missouri district.

Hancock is opposed for the Democratic nomination by James C. Skaggs of Ellington. The 153rd District is composed of Carter and Shannon counties and parts of Reynolds, Reipley and Oregon counties.

The Case of The Inconsiderate Guest

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Roger invited Mr. Newcomer to his home for dinner only to discover that Newcomer was a late goer. As the hours passed, he stayed and stayed. In fact, not even Roger's polite yawns were able to untrench his guest. About midnight, Mr. Newcomer complained of feeling sick and requested permission to remain overnight.

As far as Roger was concerned, that was the last straw. He handed Mr. Newcomer his hat and sent him on his way into a raging snowstorm. Unfortunately, he didn't get very far. As soon as Roger slammed the door behind him, Mr. Newcomer fainted in the snow and wasn't discovered until two hours later, as stiff as a board, on Rogers's doorstep.

When ultimately thawed out, Mr. Newcomer sued Roger for his having suffered a servere caseof frostbite.

"I wouldn't have sent my worst enemy out on a night like that," complained the erstwhile guest in court, "no less a sick friend. It was so cold out that even the water on my knee froze."

It was his own fault," responded Roger. "Nothing would have happened had he gone home at a reasonable hour like any other considerate person. As for letting him stay over, I wasn't running a hotel."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the inconsiderate guest to collect for his frostbite?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that when a person invites another to his home for dinner, humanity, as well as the law, requires that he may not expose him to the merciless elements by sending him home in a helpless condition. (Based upon a 1907 Minnesota Supreme Court Decision)

Ann Landers

Face Lift Can Boost Morale

Dear Ann Landers: May i say a word to "Teresa," the woman who wants a face-lift but can't make up her mind? I was in her shoes a year ago at age 45. My friends were asking me with increased frequency if I was unwell or tired. The bags under my eyes and my drooping lids made me look perpeturally exhusted, hung-over or ill.

It got so bad I hated to look at myself in the mirror. I never was a vain person, but the appearance of wrinkles and bags had a very depressing effect on me. I discussed a face-lift with my husband and he assured me that I looked great the way I was. When I reported his comments to the plastic surgeon he said, "Most husbands react that way. They don't want to be responsible for surgery of any kind."

I went ahead with the face-lift. After a three-week healing period, during which I was swollen, black-and-blue and a real mess, I can say without exaggerating that I was thrilled with the results.

A woman who is pleased with her looks is easier to live wiht. You said in a recent column that most face-lifts are done for emotional reasons rather than cosmetic reasons --- that a woman who has a face-lift frequently thinks it's going to make a big difference in her lift, and of course it doesn't. Well, Ann, maybe it doesn't change a person's life, but it can certainly boost the morale and THAT'S a good enough change for me. --- Happier In Albuquerque

Dear Happier: If you feel good about your face-lift, and obviously you do, it was the right decision. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the secretary who was pregnant and wanted to stay on the job "until they have to rush me by ambulance to the hospital to deliver." It seems her boss's wife wanted her out of the office in her seventh month because her presence was "embarrassing."

The problem has been solved in Washington, D.C. It is now a matter of law. I hope all employed women everywhere are aware of the legislation which was signed by President Nixon March 24th. To deny a woman employment because she is pregnant is in direct violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, according to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Pregnancy and all disabilities related to it are treated the same as any other temporary disability in terms of leave time, seniority, reinstatement, and insurance payments. Pass the word, Ann. -- Wm. J. Cameron, M.D., Dept. of Obstetrics and Gynecology, University of Kansas, In K.C.

Dear Dr. Cameron: Consider it passed and thank you for writing. (P.S. Are you aware that Paternity Leave is being offered by some companies? Yup. Poppa gets time off with pay!)

Dear Ann Landers: A lot of people who hate pets twist the facts to make it look like pets are taking over the country. A magazine article had this headline: "Pets outnumber people three to one." When I read the first paragraph I discovered "pets" meant canaries, parakeets, hamsters, goldfish, turtles and ponies as well as dogs and cats. This isn't fair. Please set the record straight. --- Animal Lover

Dear Lover: The record IS straight. What would YOU call them?

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's bookelt, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 35 cents in coin to this newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Lee Lewis

Lewis-Appleton

MOREHOUSE -- The marriage of Joan Elizabeth Appleton to Maxwell Lee Lewis was solemnized July 1 at 2 p.m. in United Pentecostal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mary Appleton of Morehouse and the late Lucian Appleton. The groom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Nathaniel Lewis of Morehouse.

The groom's father performed the marriage ceremony.

Michael Lee Grigery of Sikeston, organist, accompanied Vicki Gromer of Elwood, Ind., as she sang, "I Love You Truly", "We've Only Just Begun" and "I Am Yours and You Are Mine".

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Ronnie Appleton, wore a full- length bridal gown of nylon sheer with acetate and nylon lace appliques trimming the A- line skirt and the sheer illusion yoke. Ribbon trimmed with lace daisies accented the waistline and Juliet- style sleeves.

Margaret Appleton, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Betty Lewis of Parma, Sherry Lewis of Lilbourn and Karla Lewis of Morehouse.

Martha McWhirter, foster sister of the bride, was flower girl. Marcella Appleton, niece of the bride, marched down the aisle dressed as a miniature bride.

Charles Lewis of Moringquin, La., was best man. Groomsmen were Jackie Lewis of Parma and Rodger Abernathy and Larkie Lewis, both of Morehouse.

Ushers were Kip Reischman of Morehouse and Larry Appleton of Sikeston, brother of the bridge. Larkie Lewis and Bruce Appleton of Morehouse, brother of the bride, were candlelighters.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Silver Dollar City at Branson. They will live in Canalou, where the groom is engaged in farming.

The new Mrs. Lewis is a 1970 graduate of Morehouse High School and Lewis is a graduate of Sikeston High School.

Bootheel Youth Fair Planned For August

Plans for the Bootheel Youth Fair to be held Aug. 8 through 12 in Sikeston are being finalized.

The fair is open to all youths 8 to 19 years old, who live in Scott, Stoddard, New Madrid, Mississippi, Dunklin and Pemiscot counties. Youth groups to participate include Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H, Future Homemakers of America, Future Farmers of America and any other interested youth groups or individuals.

A horse show will be held at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 8 in the Sikeston Horseman's Club arena. There will be 11 classes with five ribbons being awarded in each class plus a jackpot show. For further information, contact Charles Lentz of Sikeston Route Two.

The deadline for the dress revue, public speaking and amateur talent contest is Aug. 1. These events will be held Aug. 9 in Sikeston Activity Center. Anyone wishing to enter any of these contests may contact Mrs. Gerald Jackson, 316 Powers in Sikeston.

Money prizes and ribbons will be given in the dress revue, public speaking contest and amateur talent contest.

Exhibits and displays may be entered Aug. 9 between 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. at Kingsway Plaza Mall. Exhibits may be entered in foods, clothing, woodwork, electricity, field crops, vegetables, photography, entomology, child care, crafts, hobbies, conservation, art, home improvement and home management and home grounds. Contact Ray Leonard, 1013 Davis in Sikeston.

The exhibits will be open for public viewing Aug. 10, 11 and 12. They will be removed by 5 p.m. Aug. 12.

A livestock show will be held Aug. 12 in the Beck and McCord Auction Barn. The beef cattle show begins at 8:30 a.m. and the swine show will begin at 9:30 a.m. Contact Peter Myers, 1007 Davis Blvd. in Sikeston, for information.

There will be two showmanship awards given in beef cattle and two in swine competition. All exhibitors are limited to two exhibits per class.

A tractor rodeo will be held at 1:30 a.m. Aug. 12 at Midtowner Village Shopping Center. To enter, a youth must be 14 years or older and have their parents sign an approval form. First prize will be $35, second prixe, $25, and third prize, $15. Contact Ed Robertson, Charleston Box 41, for information.

At 1 p.m. Aug. 12 demonstrations and illustrated talks will be given in Kingsway Plaza Mall.

For further information contact any University of Missouri Extenstion Center or one of the above named individuals.

College News

High Fashion Stays Among Rich Women

PARIS (AP) -- "Would you wear costime jewelry if you can go to Harry Winston?"

Marc Bohan, designer for the Dior house of fashion, asks the rhetorical question, dropping the name of the man who sells diamonds.

The question is really an answer — to all those nasty rumors that high fashion is disappearing.

Next week the Paris houses show their fall collections. All the couturiers reason . that it's still better to wear beautiful clothes that fit than funny ones that don't.

"Why shouldn't a rich woman spend her money?" demands Pierre Cardin. "Putting it in the bank is dishonest.

"The couture isn't dead. It just looks different. If there were only popular things in life, it would be total ennui. A beautiful car is as good as a sculpture from a moral point of view."

"After all," says Cardin, "one goes to Cannes to see films. One goes to Paris for dresses."

Warf Wins Tourney

Jim Warf, Jr., repeated as champion of the Sikeston Country Club invitational golf tournament over the weekend and moved within one victory of claiming permanent possession of the coveted Buckner - Ragsdale traveling trophy.

Warf shot a 136 to nudge Buddy Godwin of Poplar Bluff by one stroke for the title. Jan Jansco of Johnson City, Ill., carded a 138 for third. Connie Connell of Cape Girardeau placed fourth with 139 and Virgil Powell of Malden and Charles Webber of Cape Girardeau shot 141's for a fifth place tie.

In what has been described as the best field of golfers and being the biggest invitational of the year, 118 contestants converged for the Sikeston Invitational Entries in five classes battled the 36-hole distance.

In Class A, David Newberry of Sikeston shot 146 to take first place. Arlon Kohler of Imperial, Mo., also shot a 146, taking second after a tie-breaking playoff. Gary Adkins' 147 was third best in the class. Mack Bain of Sikeston and Jim Thompson of Jackson were deadlocked for fourth place with 148's and decided to divide the prizes, but for the record Thompson yielded fourth to Bain.

John Steele of West Frankfort, Ill., finished with a seven - stroke lead over the next best contender in Class B to take an easy first with a score of 150. Tharon Stallings and Charles Dye, both of Sikeston, shot 157's to take second and third places respectively, dividing the prizes. Cary Austin of West Frankfort scored a 161 for fourth place and Jack Knowland of Jackson shot a 162 for fifth.

Sikeston golfers held the winning positions in the C and D classes. Results are listed below:

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Harry Caponi, father of professional golfers Donna Young and Janet LePera, has died of a stroke at age 49.

Caponi, golf pro at Studio City course near here, suffered a stroke last week and died Sunday night. Both his married daughters play on the Women's Professional Golf association tour.

Gibson Center of Controversy

ATLANTA (AP) — Bob Gibson reluctantly throws the first pitch tonight in the 43rd AllStar baseball game, claiming all the while: "I didn't want to start."

The St. Louis Cardinal righthander, less than overjoyed about his assignment for the National League, faces Jim Palmer of the American League at Atlanta Stadium.

"If I had my druthers, I wouldn't start this All-Star Game," said Gibson, the hottest pitcher in baseball with 11 straight victories. "I'd much rather just pitch one inning— and leave. An All-Star assignment might be an honor, but it's hard work, too."

Gibson matches serves with Palmer, the right-handed Baltimore Oriole ace, before a full house of 52,744 while about 50 million more are expected to watch on national television. The game starts at 8:30 p.m., EDT.

Gibson, historically a fierce competitor, created controversy with his position on the All-Star Game.

"Yes, I said that I didn't want to start but I didn't say that I didn't want to pitch—the writers said that," Gibson remarked Monday at a press conference, referring to a recent newspaper story.

The hard-throwing hurler said that he preferred to work just one inning in relief so that it wouldn't interfere with his normal rotation during the regular season. It's usually the practice for an All-Star starter to complete three innings.

While the talkative Gibson spoke his mind, Palmer remained a silent starter on the eve of the midsummer classic. Palmer was absent from the press conference, but Earl Weaver, his manager at Baltimore and the boss of the American League team, had enough to say for both.

"This game is important to me and to every player in it," said Weaver, responding to Gibson's posture. "I don't think anybody should say he doesn't want to play. Ninety-five per cent of the gate from this game goes into the pension fund. This pays for my retirement and his (Gibson's) and he'd better not forget it."

Weaver, producing newspaper clippings quoting Gibson's outspoken comments, added: "It's something that shouldn't have been said. I'm sure he's happy to be here and he'll go out and do a job, especially after me popping off."

National League Manager Danny Murtaugh seemed unrattled by the Gibson storm.

"I haven't seen any article," said the former Pittsburgh manager. "What did he say?"

When Weaver produced the clippings, Murtaugh glanced at them and said: "Well, Bob and I have different ideas. I named him as my starter ... and I'm going to start him."

Murtaugh refused to commit himself past the first three innings, although he has a quantity of powerful pitching arms to choose from, including New York's Tom Seaver, Steve Blass of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Philadelphia Phillies' Steve Carlton and Don Sutton of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

But with all that reserve pitching help, the National League is a 7-5 favorite based heavily on slugging stars—including Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, the major league's home run and RBI leader with 24 and 72.

Also helping to load the odds against the American League and boost the Nationals' series edge of 23 victories, 18 losses and one tie, is a power-stacked lineup that can easily reach the fences at Atlanta Stadium, a hitter's paradise called "The Launching Pad."

Included among them is the ever-present Hank Aaron, playing in his 21st All-Star Game. The Atlanta Braves' slugger, who has hit many of his career 659 home runs here, expects there will be more than one ball leaving the cozy park Tuesday night.

Aaron, despite a history of poor All-Star performances, will be hitting No. 3 in the National League lineup. Joe Morgan, Cincinnati's second baseman, is the Nationals' leadoff man, followed by Pittsburgh center fielder Roberto Clemente.

Willie Stargell, Pittsburgh's left fielder, will hit in the cleanup spot, followed by Bench. Houston first baseman Lee May will bat sixth, third baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis, seventh, and Chicago shortstop Don Kessinger is Murtaugh's No. 8 hitter while Gibson, one of the best-hitting pitchers in the game, will bat ninth.

Weaver, hoping to duplicate last year's 6-4 American League triumph at Detroit, insists he's going all-out to win this one.

"I'll use my players as I think they'll help me to win the game ... and I hope that I use them at the right time," said Weaver.

Weaver said that he plans to use 17-game-winner Mickey Lolich of Detroit and Cleveland's Gaylord Perry right behind Palmer "depending on Murtaugh's strategy."

Rod Carew, Minnesota's fine second baseman, is Weaver's leadoff batter. New York Yankee center fielder Bobby Murcer is the No. 2 hitter in the Americans' lineup, followed by 3-4-5 batters right fielder Reggie Jackson of Oakland; Chicago first baseman Dick Allen and left fielder Carl Yastrzemski of Boston. Shortstop Bobby Grich of Baltimore; Orioles' third baseman Brooks Robinson; catcher Bill Freehan of Detrmit and Palmer round out the Americans' lineup.

Rain Slows Play

The Sikeston Little League Tournament got off to a sluggish start Monday night with only one of the slated first-round bouts taking place. In the American League's Western Division, fifth seeded Bridger surprised the No. 3 positioned Flower Basket by clawing out a 9-8 victory.

Bridger started by immediately grabbing the upper hand, scoring a 1-0 advantage in the first inning. The scene was reversed in the second inning as Flower Basket ignited a seven- run campaign in its bid for victory, but could only accumulate one more run against a determined Bridger. The winning squad chalked up its second marker in the third inning and came back to file seven men across the plate in the fourth to take the one-run verdict.

Doster was the hurler for Bridger, going all four innings and fanning seven batters. Overby suffered the loss for Flower Basket.

Bridger's catcher, T. Holifield, tripled and the shortstop, D. Holifield, had a double to guide the final - inning fiasco.

Overby slammed a triple and Greer connected for two doubles Divinny had one two - bagger for Flower Basket.

LUENBURG, N.S. (AP) — Kathi Anne II, owned and skippered by David Stevens of Lunenburg, Monday won the first race of a best-of-3 competition in the international schooner races, completing the 17.5-mile course in 4 hours and 4 minutes.

Outward Bound, the U.S. entry, owned and skippered by Milton Craig of Dedham, Mass., was left far behind.

The two vessels will race again Wednesday, and a third race, if necessary, will be held Friday. The event is part of the 36th annual Nova Scotia fisheries exhibition being held here.

Gabriel and His Scars Face Another Season

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. — (NEA) — The man who has been called the world's biggest Filipino carried his golf clubs slung over his back, papoose style. Roman Gabriel shunned cart and caddy on the hilly Lake Tahoe links. He had to get his knees into shape for the grovel and grind of another pro football season with the Los Angeles Rams.

Roman Gabriel

Roman has had four knee operations in three years. He doesn't think it was an accident.

"Defensive linemen," he says, "go more for the quarterback's knees than they ever have. And they don't call roughing the passer. Now it's taught to a player to hit a quarterback at the knees and get him out of the game, even if he's already falling and is out of the play."

So Roman is determined to get out of the way as fast as he can. At 31, he has trimmed back to a hard 215 pounds, his weight a decade ago at North Carolina State. With his tawny black hair straight down to the shoulders and his burnt umber complexion, he looks like one of the flat-bellied braves who used to survive High Sierra winters.

From his grandeur of six feet four inches, Roman always looked indestructible against the assaults of blitzing linebackers and charging front fours. But he's now stitched with the incisions of modern surgery.

Seams were exposed after Roman had his greatest season in 1969 and was the most valuable player in the NFL.

He submitted to a dual operation to mend both the medial and lateral cartilage in his right knee. After the 1970 season, he had surgery on the right knee again to repair the lateral cartilage because the knee had become arthritic and bone chips were floating around in it. Recently, there was more of the same, same knee.

"I played all of 1971," he says, "not being able to straighten out my right knee or flex it. And all the pounding on astroturf built up fibrous tissue so that I had a bump the size of a silver dollar on the front of the knee. Cortisone shots I had taken years before calcified in the back of the knee in three spots. I had an operation in late December to remove them. I went back into the hospital two months ago to have the fibrous tissue taken out.

"They gave me knockout shots at 6.30 in the morning. At 8:30, time for surgery, I was still awake. They gave me another shot of novocaine and it still didn't put me to sleep. Neither did a fourth shot during the operation. I guess I wanted to see what was going on."

Roman's not quite as unflappable as he looks.

"I more or less keep injuries to myself," he says. "It's tough enough playing football when you're healthy to let them know when you're not. I'll tell you what it's like to have a bad knee. Even in practice when you drop back to throw there's a pain like a knife. You come home for dinner and you have to put your leg up and then it stiffens.

"In 1970, I had an operation on my right elbow to remove calcium deposits. I couldn't straighten the arm out or touch my shoulder. Last season was the first time I was booed since I was with the Rams. It was a tough year. I played with separated ribs."

And yet there's no thought of retirement, though Roman is well fixed with outside interests.

"I play football," he says, "because there's still a challenge for me and I enjoy it. The money is a secondary thing. I want to get in the Super Bowl.

"In football, I get emotionally high because I'm the quarterback. And when things don't go right, you get emotional."

Just One Of the Guys

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It's nobody's business who won or lost.

I played Debbie (The Pearl) Mason three games of one-on-one basketball recently. We played in the Queens College gym, her home court. It began as an odd experience, and it ended that way.

I mean, playing against a woman is not like playing against Big Red at the Y, although Big Red also defies logic sometimes. Like he'll wear one black gym shoe and one white gym shoe and explain, "So what, they're almost the same size, aren't they?"

Which brings up a second point of this strange inter-sex game: my grunting male chauvinism. I was a little cross-eyed at the thought of losing to a broad.

I had heard about Debbie Mason. About how she was the star of the Queens College women's basketball team last season, while only a freshman. About how she led the team to the New York State championship (she was named the outstanding player) and to fifth place in the national tournament.

And I had heard about her moves, the quick hips and double-pump jumps that made the crowds roar and that, inevitably, pinned on her the nickname, "The Pearl," in admiring comparison to Earl Monroe of the New York Knicks.

And I had heard that Debbie had recently been invited to participate in the U.S. women's basketball team tryouts. Between 50 and 75 women have been asked to come to the training camp at Parsons College in Iowa from Aug. 26 to Sept. 9. Sixteen will be chosen to play in the World Games in Moscow in 1973.

"The guys don't take me too seriously at first," she says, amiably. "But soon they say, 'I'd better start playin' some defense.' By then it's too late."

Hollway Looks At Five QB's

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Coach Bob Hollway of the St. Louis football Cardinals looked at five quarterbacks Monday in a scrimmage with the college all-star team

"I thought our pass protection was good, despite the fact it was our first scrimmage of the year," said Hollway. "Considering we used three different units, our over-all defense wasn't that bad."

The Big Red pilot sent in regulars Pete Beathard, Gary Cuozzo and Jim Hart plus reserve Jim Van Elder and Rookie Mike Franks against the college stars. Cardinal quarterbacks completed 13 of 37 passes, with four interceptions.

The all-stars used Jerry Tagge, Van Brownson and Pat Sullivan at quarterback. The trio completed 15 of 30 passes, with two going to wide receiver Bob Moore, the top Cardinals draft pick.

College defensive lineman Walt Patulski of Notre Dame was taken out of the game with an injured knee. Patulski was the number one draft pick of the Buffalo Bills.

A spokesman at an Evanston, Ill., hospital said x-rays were negative on Patulski's knee. But he said the college star may have aggravated an old injury and is questionable for the game with the world champion Dallas Cowboys.

IT'S A BIG ONE. George Morris of Sikeston latched onto one of the "big ones" last Thursday when he pulled in this 12-pound catfish near Sikeston at a place he called a "favorite fishin' hole." Morris caught the 29-incher on six-pound test line.

Durocher 'Steps Aside'

ATLANTA (AP) — Leo Durocher, who took over the downtrodden Chicago Cubs in 1966 and made them pennant contenders a year later, has "stepped aside" as manager.

Vice President John Holland used that phrase in making the announcement early today, leaving it unclear whether The Lip had quit or been fired.

In any case, Whitey Lockman, director of player development, is the man picked by owner Phil Wrigley to revive the Cubs. They are currently languishing in fourth place in the National League East, 10 games out of first.

The Chicago Sun-Times reported today that Wrigley had summoned Durocher to his apartment Monday night for a top-secret meeting, the second such summit conference in nine months.

Lockman, former New York Giants first baseman under Durocher, denied that the Cubs are suffering from morale problems.

"Of course, I haven't been too close to the team in my position this year," he added in an interview today, his 46th birthday.

He said he was hard put to diagnose the team's ineffectiveness.

"You have to remember that Pittsburgh and St. Louis have been playing exceptionally well," he said.

Lockman, Holland and other Cubs staff were in Atlanta for tonight's All-Star game, in which Cub shortstop Don Kessinger is starting for the National League.

Durocher had dropped from sight and was unavailable for comment.

No big player changes are anticipated, said Lockman, and managing policies are not expected to be drastically revamped.

Lockman spent 15 years as a player in the majors, coming up in 1945 and retiring after the 1959 season with Baltimore and Cincinnati. He played under Durocher when he managed New York for 7½ years in the late 40s and early 50s.

Lockman's first assignment after joining the Cubs' organization in 1964 was to manage Dallas-Fort Worth in the Texas League. He guided the team to a first-place tie and was named Manager of the Year in the league.

From 1967 to 1970 Lockman managed the Tacoma Cubs of the Pacific Coast League. The Cubs won the PCL championship in 1969 and he picked up his second Manager of the Year award.

In 1970 he was appointed supervisor of player development — a minor league job — and two years later he was appointed assistant to the vice president.

Lockman claimed to have no knowledge of players' discontent with Durocher's managing, although such strife was apparent last year.

McGowan Tops Duffers

MALDEN — A total of 72 golfers competed over the weekend in the Malden duffers' tournament.

The officials broke the scoring at 91, advancing all with lower scores into "Cheaters" category and placing the remaining golfers into four other classes.

Mike Keller of Kennett won the Cheaters' class with a low score of 85. Dolph Riggs of Kennett was the champion duffer with a final score of 151.

A sudden - death playoff divided a four-way tie in the championship class, with Jack McGowan of Bernie taking first in the competition with 91. Robbie Darnell of Malden took second, Alvin Butler of Piggott, Ark. placed third, and Charles Hartwell of Fagus was fourth, all with 91's. A score of 92 by Frank Wyer of Cudahy, Calif., placed fifth.

George Cahail of Gideon shot a 91 to win A class. Jerry Dorch of Kennett shot a 92 for second. Earl Kegley of Piggott tied Jerold Stafford of Malden for third with scores of 94 and Kegley taking the No. 3 spot after a flip. Wayne Waltrip of Piggott scored a 95 for fifth best.

Towny Sparks of Kennett topped B class with a 94. Lemual Smith of Holcomb shot 96 for second best. Gerald Robison of Kennett had a score of 98 to place third. Fred Meystett of Cape Girardeau shot an even 100 for fourth and Jim Rogers of Piggott placed fifth with 101.

In C class, George McGaughey of Poplar Bluff won with a score of 104. Bob McGowan of Fisk shot 106 for second. Welton Oakes of Kennett captured third place after a tie-breaking flip handed fourth to Edmund Hurst of Nimmons, Ark., when both turned in scores of 108. Fifth position went to Allen Garrett of Kennett with 109.

Golf equipment was awarded to the winners in each division.

Tracey, Medler Win

DEXTER — The results were more than successful as the first annual George Sisler Memorial Four-Ball Golf Tournament at the Dexter County Club opened competition over the weekend. Fifty-eight two-man teams turned out for the event which will be held yearly in honor of the well - known area golfer who was a Vietnam war casualty.

Carl Tracey and Chet Medler of Dexter were the top-ranking golfers after topping the championship class with a score of 133. The Dexter team of Yewell Camp and Glenn Medler was second best with a a score of 136. The No. 3 spot went to Pat Donnellan and Dr. Jerry McLain of Poplar with 173.

A 136, belonging to David Agee and Mich Lynch, both of Dexter, was the lowest mark in A class. Joe Litz of Piggott, Ark., and Yewell Lawrence of Dexter achieved a 137 total and second place after getting the upper hand in a flip of the coin. Third place went to Bobby Jibben of Dexter and Ron Cohen of Malden, also with 137. Woody Simmons and Mike Uhls of Charleston took fourth with 139. Fifth place was filled by Gary James and Bill Webb of Dexter with a score of 140.

Herb Moore and Bill Marvell of Poplar Bluff were winners in B class with 144. Second went to Mike Saracini of West Memphis, Ark., and Leo Saracini of Poplar Bluff with a joint effort of 146. Two Dexter teams tied for third with 147 totals. Hap Lynn and Bill Lawson took third after a flip, handing fourth to Jim Hall and Don Lincoln. Bob Hampton and Mike Carter of Charleston took fifth with 148 after the flip put Danny Winchel and Mark McQuary of Cape Girardeau in sixth position, also with 148.

Wilbur McClain and Kenny Davis of Bloomfield shot 154 to take first in the C class. Dave Cummins and Larry Wadlington of Advance shot 155 for second. A 156 by Clarence Ackman and Jim Lawrence of Dexter was third best in the competition. Howell Jean and John Deem with 157 and Dr. Rehm and Rod O'Donnall with 158, all of Dexter, took fourth and fifth places respectively.

A total of $1,200 in trophies and merchandise was given away.

Action Slows

MALDEN — Ricky Dockins worked six complete innings in pitching the Malden Yellows to an 8-5 victory over Qulin in opening round play of the 16-team invitational Little League baseball tournament Monday night. Two other games were rained out.

Wilbur Thorton, tournament chairman, reported today that action will resume at 5 p.m. with North Pemiscot and Fisk locked in a scoreless deadlock going into the top of the second inning.

Gideon is scheduled against Neelyville at 6:30 and Parma will battle Matthews at 8 p.m. in a revised schedule. Parma and Matthews were originally set to play at 5 today.

Jackson Masters Dexter

SCOTT CITY— North County Connie Mack baseball team will represent Southeast Missouri in the state tournament at Independence over the weekend after knocking off defending champion Dexter, 12-6.

Jeff Jackson, the tall and talented righthander who led Kelly into the state high school tournament in May, has won eight of the team's 11 games and picked up the victory over Dexter Saturday.

A number of the athletes who performed with Jackson on the KHS district championship team is competing with North County.

Gibson Player of Week

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals' hurler Bob Gibson, who won his 10th and 11th consecutive games during July 17-July 23, today was named National League Player of the Week for that period by Charles S. Feeney, the league president.

Gibson, who beat the Houston Astros and Atlanta Braves to run his record to 11-5, had 18 strikeouts and allowed just three runs in 18 innings during the week.

Herb Teas Used for Ailments

By DAVID A. KIRKBY
Associated Press Writer

LISBON (AP) — Abel Rodrigues never went to medical school. But every week hundreds of Portuguese visit his Lisbon shop seeking relief from various ailments.

Rodrigues' treatment is simple. He prescribes three cups a day of one of his herbal tea mixtures.

According to Rodrigues, this usually effects a cure within two to three weeks.

Rodrigues is the owner of one of more than 500 "ervanarias" or herb shops which exist in Portugal.

Herbal teas have been popular in Portugal for hundreds of years.

"As a matter of fact," says Rodrigues, "people were drinking these teas long before anyone had heard of penicillin, chloroform or other aspects of modern medicine."

There are no miracle ingredients in herbal teas. Just roots and plants such as rosemary and senna leaves which can be found growing wild in many parts of Portugal. Others, such as aniseed and eucalyptus, are imported.

"While many people may be skeptical about the curative powers of the teas, it is a fact that big international pharmaceutical companies use the same plants as we do in the preparation of their medicines," Rodrigues explained. "The only difference is that they extract certain substances whereas we use the whole plant."

Rodrigues sells 35 kinds of herbal teas. Some are claimed to be suitable for several different illnesses.

The teas are made from secret formulas which have been handed down in the family for generation after generation.

A 10 day supply of one of the teas will cost between 80 cents to $1.60.

Rodrigues thinks herbal teas are popular because of the fear many people have of going to a doctor.

Rodrigues, who needs no lisence to run his business, does not pretend to set himself up as a doctor.

"Obviously there are many things I cannot cure.

"And so if a client comes into my shop and I can see he is seriously ill or if he has an ailment for which I have no remedy then I have no hesitation in advising him to go to a doctor."

Rodrigues says herbalists regard themselves as pharmacists.

"If you have a headache or pains in your stomach, then you usually go to a pharmacy to obtain a pain reliever which does not require a doctor's prescription.

"The same is true here except that we cure the natural way."

Rodrigues, a robust and active 64-year-old, drinks his own teas regularly.

Bank Robbery Money Recovered

LUTESVILLE — Robert Chase, the man who has been held as a prime suspect in the May 22 armed robbery of the Bollinger County Bank at Lutesville, Saturday admitted the crime and led officers to the gun he used and the money he stole.

Chase, a Chicago - area man who robbed the bank on his 30th birthday anniversary, had been held in lieu of $25,000 bond in the Bollinger County Jail. Officers admitted they had little evidence on Chase, although they considered it a "strange coincidence" for him to show up on foot in the search area the day after the robbery. He was freed from a Wisconsin prison last year after serving a portion of a 10-year sentence in an earlier bank robbery.

Chase told Bollinger County deputies Saturday morning that he wanted to show them where the money was. He led them to a point about two miles south of the Crump community on Route U near the Cane Creek bridge.

Recovered were a loaded .38 special revolver Chase said he used in the holdup, 44 extra rounds of ammunication, and $9,391 in cash, all stored in an overnight bag. The bank reported that $9,410 was taken in the robbery.

A car stolen the day of the robbery in Cape Girardeau and positively identified as having been used in the crime was found in the woods weeks after Chase was arrested. But no evidence could be gleaned from the vehicle, officers said.

After the recovery of the loot and other items, Chase made a full confession to the deputies, Trooper Kenneth Howell, Bollinger County Prosecuting Attorney Kenneth Shrum and FBI Agent Douglas Rosenberger.

Rosenberger said Monday that a federal bank robbery warrant had been authorized against Chase.

O. J. HUCK

CHARLESTON — Dr. O. J. Huck, 69, died at 6 a.m. today of an apparent heart attack in his home at 802 State St.

He was born July 27, 1902 in Ste. Genevieve County. Dr. Huck, a chiropractor, moved to Charleston in 1938 to begin his practice. He was a member of St. Henry's Catholic Church, St. Joseph's Sodality, Knights of Columbus and Western Catholic Union.

On Oct. 25, 1925, he married Genevieve Braum, who survives.

Other survivors are one son, Dr. O. A. Huck of Portageville; four brothers. Ollie and Valentine Huck, both of Ste. Genevieve, Gilbert Huck of Flat River and Ralph Huck of Las Vegas, Nev.; three sisters, Mrs. Herman Weiler and Mrs. Edna Brahr, both of Ste. Genevieve, and Mrs. A. T. Basler of Fredericktown; and six grandchildren.

The body is in McMikle Funeral Home where friends may call after 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday in St. Henry's Catholic Church with the pastor, Msgr. Charles P. Schmitt, officiating.

Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

St. Henry's parish family will assemble at 8 p.m. in the McMikle chapel for recitation of the rosary.

HAROLD WILSON

WARDELL — Services were conducted today at 2 p.m. in First Baptist Church for Harold Wilson, 52, who died Sunday of natural causes at his home on Route One.

The Rev. Elven Hensley officiated. Burial followed in Wardell Memorial Cemetery with Jimmy Osburn Funeral Home in charge.

A retired cotton gin employe, Wilson was born Oct. 25, 1919 in Swift to M. D. Wilson, Sr. of Wardell and Annie Lucille Wilson who died Nov. 21, 1971. He married the former Betty Lou Warth Aug. 10, 1940 in Caruthersville.

In addition to his widow and father, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Allen E. Melton of St. Louis and Mrs. Voyne Kentner of Savannah, Tenn.; three brothers, Coy Wilson of Portageville, Jason Wilson of St. Charles and M. D. Wilson, Jr. of Caruthersville; four sisters, Mary Lou Baker of Oakland, Calif., Marie Barker of Jackson, Tenn., Mrs. Joe Palmer of Fremont, and Mrs. John Redman of St. Ann; and four grandchildren.

Highway Work Dispute Ends

HAYTI — The work dispute that resulted in a brief wildcat strike at the Interstate 55 project ended today as quickly as it began.

According to Sam Potashnick, attorney for R. B. Potashnick Construction Co., the strike "was resolved in accordance with terms of the contract between the construction firm and the operators union."

Work on the project, which forms the final link-up of the interstate between St. Louis and Memphis, was resumed this morning without further difficulty.

Chase Named In Federal Warrant

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Robert Chase, 23, of Chicago, was named Monday in a federal bank robbery warrant for the May 22 robbery of the Bollinger County Bank in Lutesville, Mo.

Chase led authorities to the stole money Saturday, Bollinger County police said. They said most of the $9,400 loot was recovered in an overnight bag on a county road near the holdup scene.

Chase was charged earlier in a county warrant and had been held in the county jail at Marble Hill.

Change Test Dates, Location

NEW MADRID — Vision tests and photographs for applicants for operator, chauffeur, renewal or duplicate licenses, beginning Aug. 1, will be changed to each Thursday and Friday at the New Madrid license bureau on the first floor in New Madrid County courthouse.

The tests now are given on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the sheriff's office.

Heckemeyer Speaks To Rotary Club

Tony Heckemeyer, state representative for the 159th District, spoke to Sikeston Rotary Club Monday night at Ramada Inn.

Heckemeyer said many people seeking public office "tell the public what is wrong with our state."

"This is the mark of a candidate who only knows what other people tell him and really can offer nothing but complaints without solutions," Heckemeyer said. "We should be aware of what is right with Missouri and observe the remarkable progress which has been made in our state."

Heckemeyer went on to say that progress in Missouri education in the last six years has been remarkable. The state has increased monies to the public schools by 137 per cent, higher education 201 per cent, vocational education 708 per cent, junior colleges 544 per cent, and these figures do not include this year's. A new medical school has been started in Kansas City, two fully funded four year branches of the University of Missouri in St. Louis and Kansas City have been started, also Joplin and St. Joseph have become the homes of two more four- year colleges. The kindergarten program has been put into operation all over the state with state and local funds, he added.

The mental health system, Heckemeyer said, has in only a few short years become a model for the entire country.

Heckemeyer is on the committee of miscellaneous resolutions, which directs study by legislative groups and has launched study into no fault insurance.

Heckemeyer told of the success of a battle he has personally waged in the appropriations committee and on the floor of the House to prevent the requirement that the new Highway Patrol Troop E headquarters be built at Poplar Bluff. He has maintained that the building should be built should be left open so all communities could compete for the site.

When asked about his campaign for re- election to the newly drawn 159th District, Heckemeyer said that it was the responsibility of a good citizen to select the man most suited to represent the people based on qualifications, experience and track record. When selecting a representative you are choosing your personal representative to stand as an adversary in the lawmaking body to protect you. It is the citizens duty to question the capabilities of each candidate to see if he can do the job, he stated.

After Heckemeyer's talk, Paul Jobe, Rotary president, announced that next week will be an "Anns Night".

Laretha harris entertained at the piano during dinner and Jim Huff, city manager, and Carroll Gerig of Flat River were club guests.

Wrap-around goggles or gray-tinted quality sunglasses are recommended by the Society for Visual Care as the best protection against glare. Although the eyes generally suffer no lasting damage from limited exposure to such glare, the harsh reflection of it can temporarily seriously diminish visual acuity and produce potentially dangerous conditions.

Four Arrested In Chase After Armed Robbery

HAYTI -- Four Champaign, Ill., men are being held in the New Madrid County jail in New Madrid awaiting transfer to Pemiscot County authorities in connection with the armed robbery Monday of Whitener service station on Highway 84.

Theodis Pettigrew, 17, Leroy Perry, 24, David Lee Palmer, 25, and his brother, Bill Joe Palmer, 17, were targets of a high-speed chase by highway patrolmen, which eventually led to an exchange of gunfire.

Paul Sheckell, 16, attendant at the service station, told authorities four Negro males came into the station at 5:15 p.m., held him at gunpoint , tied him up and got away with about $300 in a white Buick with Illinois license plates. The four were believed to have been traveling north on Interstate 55.

Shortly after the robbers left, Sheckell was released by several customers, and Hayti police were alerted.

At 6:20 p.m., Trooper J.M. Chrisman of the highway patrol spotted a white car answering the description of the getaway vehicle on Highway 61 north of New Madrid. Chrisman stopped the car and told the driver to get out. The driver started to get out then jumped back into the car, while another occupant of the car fired one or two shots at Chrisman, according to reports Trooper R.R. Ings of Charleston then joined Chrisman in pursuit of the car. Chrisman reportedly fired a riot gun at the car several times. The chase continued for about two miles until the fugitives drove into the driveway of a farm house and then into a field where the car stalled. The driver jumped from the car and ran, while the other three remained in the car.

Patrolman Robert Eddleman of Sikeston joined the other two patrolmen and aided in apprehending the fugitives.

Trooper Ings chased the fleeing driver about a quarter of a mile on foot before taking him into custody.

The patrol reported two guns and $307.30 were recovered.

No one was injured in the crossfire.

CHARLESTON — Three Negro males wearing wide - brimmed sombrero hats and sunglasses held up an attendant at Keith's service station one-half mile east of here on Highway 60 at 12:25 a.m. today. They escaped after locking the attendant, Opie Pehm, in the trunk of his car.

According to Keith Lee, owner, between $150 and $200 in cash and a .25 - calibre automatic pistol was taken. Also stolen was Pehm's watch, wedding ring and billfold. Lee said the men came in a side door of the station and all three were armed.

Pehm was struck on the head when he struggled with the men as they were putting him in the trunk. He was

Betterment Program To Be Reactivated

NEW MADRID — Plans are proceeding to reactivate the Missouri Community Betterment program in New Madrid through efforts spearheaded by F. M. Baird, president of the Chamber of Commerce, with cooperation and participation of the city's churches, youth groups, clubs, organizations and city officials.

At an organizational meeting, the Rev. Edward E. Wolfe, pastor of the Baptist Church, serving as chairman of the program, appointed committees to begin making community surveys along guidelines suggested by Jerry Shirley, southeast area specialist of MCB in Jefferson City.

A public relations committee was also appointed to get information to the citizens on the purposes and goals of the program, which include the five areas of transportation, utilities, education, industry and community services.

Under the program, a city may enter the annual MCB competition for cash awards' according to population. Upon achievement of goals in each area, the community is awarded a star. When a community achieves a star in each area, it is designated a five-star community or the top-rated community under the MCB program.

Those appointed in charge of compiling a profile of opinions on community betterment in all areas are Mrs. Glenn Dyke, R. T. Bartlett and Geneva Hunt.

A youth committee appointed to make a house to house canvass to distribute the opinion forms, both for adults and youths, include Cindi Phillips, chairman, and Fred Copeland, John Higgerson, Phillip Ransburgh, Susan Sharp and Kim St. Mary.

Public relations committee members are Mrs. Ben Caple, chairman Faye Hedgepeth, L. H. Recker, Harold Sloas and the Rev. Earl G. Statler.

Three Hurt In Semo Accidents

Two traffic accidents overnight resulted in three injuries to motorists traveling area roads and highways, the highway patrol reported today.

A car traveling south and driven by Donald Guemmer, 17, of Perryville ran off the road at 10:35 p.m. Monday and overturned on Interstate 55 outer road three miles west of Perryville. Injured in the accident was Randy Weith, 17, of Perryville. He suffered serious head injuries and a fractured skull. He was taken to Perry County Hospital in Perryville and later taken to St. John's Mercy Hospital in St. Louis.

Another accident was reported at 12:05 a.m. today on Highway 60 in Dexter when a car driven by Mildred Stelle, 60, of Poplar Bluff pulled from a service station driveway into the path of a vehicle traveling west and driven by Carl Burns, 25, of Danville, Ill. Injured in the accident were Burns, who suffered cuts on the chin, and a passenger, Richard Burns, 57, of Metcalf, Ill. Both were taken to Dexter Memorial Hospital in Dexter.

Hicks Placed On 1-Year Probation

Lewis Johnny Hicks, 20, of 240 Watson Street, was placed on one- year probation today in Magistrate Court for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

He was arrested July 8 while trying to leave town with a 13- year- old girl. He was picked up with another youth who had taken his stepfather's car without permission. Another teen-age girl was also picked up with them.

Part of the condition of Hicks' probation is that he stay away from the girl, according to Judge Lloyd Briggs.

Jimmy Dewane Pennington of Hot Springs, Ark., was given six months probation on charges of tampering with a motor vehicle.

He was stopped the night of June 26 by a policeman who thought he might need a place to sleep. The officer took him to the city jail and, as Pennington emptied his pockets, he pulled out a key ring belonging to Coca Cola Bottling Company.

The police then found the car that had been broken into parked in front of the bottling company.

Five people were ordered arrested for failure to appear in court. They are Charles Earle Stephenson, Route One, Box 273, charged with permitting an unlicensed driver to use his car; Freddie Brown, 1002 S. Locust, Charleston, no driver's license; Elva David Skinner, Bertrand Route One, improper vehicle registration; Gary Wayne Puckett, Radcliff St., Oran, defective brakes; Cecil Blane Hooper, Route Three, no driver's license.

Other cases before the court included: Danial Wells Moit, Box 91, Bertrand, careless and imprudent driving, placed on one- year probation. Marla Mona Bartlett, 217 Harrison Street in Miner, no driver's license, $25 and costs. Robert J. Shannon, 105 Alabama, no driver's license, $25 fine.

Rep. Pierce Withdraws From Race

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — State Rep. Robert Pierce, R-Cape Girardeau, announced today he is withdrawing from the race to hold his seat.

The 33-year-old attorney and former Cape Girardeau mayor said his reasons were personal, related to his family.

Pierce has been the only Republican seeking the office. His name will remain on the primary ballot because of his late withdrawal, but will not appear on the November ballot.

The only other candidate for the seat is Pat McKee, Democrat.

A new nominee for the GOP ticket will be decided by the local Legislative District Committee.

Pierce said he will serve out the present term.

Wheat Program Announced

Major provisions of the 1973 wheat program have been announced by Roy Proctor, chairman of the Scott County ASC Committee. They include the set aside required for participation, an option to voluntarily set aside additional acreage and the payment rate for the additional set aside.

To participate in the wheat program, a producer must set aside an acreage equal to 86 per cent of the farm's domestic wheat allotment.

In addition to the set aside required for participation, a producer may earn payment for setting aside additional acreage up to 150 per cent of his 1973 domestic wheat allotments at a payment rate of 88 cents per bushel. Producers who choose this option must agree to limit their total 1973 wheat program acreage planted for harvest. The limit will be their 1972 wheat program acreages plus the 1972 voluntary set aside minus the 1973 voluntary set-aside acreage. This option is aimed at encouraging retirement of additional land to prevent excessive wheat production.

There will be no acreage limitation for producers who set aside only the required 86 per cent.

"The announcement of voluntary set aside is being made much earlier than last year so the winter wheat producer can plan his wheat operation before investing any money in his 1973 crop," Proctor said.

Substitution provisions of the 1973 wheat program are identical to those in 1972 with corn, grain sorghum, barley or soybeans allowed for preservation of allotment history.

Producers will again receive preliminary payments after July 1, 1973, equal to 75 per cent of the estimated face value of the wheat certificate. Any remainder will be paid after December 1, 1973. Face value of the wheat certificate will again be the difference between 100 per cent of the July 1, 1973, parity and the national average market price received by farmers during the first five months of the marketing year. As in the past two years, a producer will earn certificate payments based on his domestic allotment times the farm's established yield, and producers are not required to plant wheat to earn certificate payments. However, failure to plant at least 90 per cent of the farm's 1973 domestic wheat allotment to either wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley or soybeans can result in reduction of allotment by as much as 20 per cent.

Substitution provisions allow acreage devoted to feed grain or soybeans to be considered planted to wheat to prevent loss of history and to quality for payments. Acreage devoted to wheat or soybeans will be considered planted to feed grains to preven loss of that base. This enables a producer to plant the combination of wheat, feed grain or soybeans that best fits his operation and preserve his planting history and program benefits.

Other provisions of the 1973 wheat program, unchanged from 1971 and 1972, include the requirement that farmers maintain their conserving base requirements as well as set-aside acreage.

ASCS county offices will notify wheat producers of their domestic allotment and the applicable set aside for their farms.

Arguments In Bond Case Set Thursday

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo (AP) — A federal court suit seeking to overthrow Missouri's 10-year residency requirement, the basis of a challenge in the state Supreme Court to the candidacy of state Auditor Christopher Bond, has been filed in federal court in St. Louis.

Bond, Republican candidate for nomination to the governor's race, was in the Supreme Court chambers when filing of the St. Louis suit was announced.

He said he did not know about it until it was prepared, but said, "it was filed in my behalf, so naturally I will support it."

The high court, in Jefferson City, recessed a hearing on Bond's residency until 9 a. m. Wednesday at the request of Bond's attorney, F. William McCalpin. Chief Justice James A. Finch Jr. set 10:30 a. m. Thursday for arguments. After that, the court will take the case under advisement and deliver an opinion.

State Rep. R. J. "Bus" King Jr., R-Clayton, one of Bond's opponents for the GOP nomination, also attended the session. He filed the suit, contending Bond lived in other states from 1960-68 and that Bond's name should be removed from the Aug. 8 primary ballot.

The constitutionality question also was brought out in the Supreme Court case when Bond's attorneys filed a motion to quash King's suit on the grounds that the 10-year requirement is unconstitutional. The motion had not been acted upon.

Finch indicated a ruling on the entire case could be expected Friday or Saturday.

Bond was elected auditor in 1970. The state Constitution says candidates for governor and auditor must have lived in the state 10 full years before the election. McCalpin said he would contest every point in King's suit. Bond has said he would not deny living outside the state but has said that he has never voted in another state.

Among those filing the St. Louis suit was Ethan A. H. Shepley, a Republican candidate for governor in 1964 and a former Washington University chancellor. He also is St. Louis County co-chairman for Bond's campaign.

The suit was filed by Albert E. Schoenbeck, a St. Louis County lawyer.

The plaintiffs contend that the 10-year residency requirement violates the equal protection and due process clauses of the U. S. Constitution. They also argue that the reuidency rule violates constitutional rights to travel and to vote.

The plaintiffs said they wanted to retain the right to vote for Bond in the primary and said the 10-year rule was "unreasonable and not necessary to promote a compelling government interest."

The suit was filed against the St. Louis County election board, representing all election board members and county clerks in the state. The same defendants also were named in King's Supreme Court suit.

Judge William H. Webster of U. S. District Court requested Chief Judge W. C. Matthes of the 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals to create a three-judge panel to hear the case.

One of the plaintiffs, John C. Shapleigh, a student, attached to the suit a copy of an absentee ballot he received from the St. Louis County election board with Bond's name blocked out. Shapleigh said he was deprived of his right to vote for Bond.

About a dozen names had been stamped out Friday before a telegram from the chief justice in Jefferson City ordered that Bond's name remain on the ballot until the Supreme Court suit is settled.

Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick told the high court that Boone County, which needed the go ahead by Wednesday, will be affected by a delay in the case. In Boone County, about 30,000 paper ballots would have to be changed if Bond is ordered off the ballot, he said.

Vandalism Suspects Arrested

ADVANCE — Jackie Payne, 19, of Route One and Sammy Jones, 19, of Route Two were arrested Monday night by Marshal Ken Long after admitting vandalizing the Advance elementary school Thursday night.

The two entered the building by breaking a window. They then opened gallon cans of food and scattered the food throughout the building. Officials estimated the damage at $500.

Payne and Jones are being held in Stoddard County jail in Bloomfield.

Illinois Woman Held In Theft Of Melons

CHARLESTON — A charge of stealing is expected to be filed today against Helen Poe, 26, of Alto Pass, Ill., who is being held in Mississippi County jail in connection with the theft of a pickup truck load of watermelons Monday afternoon from the Robert Burke farm southeast of East Prairie.

According to Deputy Sheriff Everett Holley, the woman was arrested Monday night in East Prairie by Deputy Sheriff Jack Ivie, and several of her companions are still being sought.

She will be arraigned before Magistrate T. J. Brown, Jr., Thursday.

Howardville To Break Ground For New Co-op

HOWARDVILLE — Groundbreaking ceremonies will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday for the first community- owned rural supermarket in the state at the Howardville Area Cooperative Enterprise property on Highway 61.

The cooperative supermarket project was started early in 1971, essentially as a self- help endeavor, to provide the community of 500 with a full- service convenient grocery shopping facility.

To most of the residents, who are above retirement age and living on fixed incomes from Social Security or welfare, the problem of transportation and expense to neighboring communities of New Madrid and Portageville to buy fresh meats, vegetables and daily products is critical.

With assistance from Missouri Delta Ecumenical Ministry, the local HACE Corporation was formed after receiving a $325 grant for initial organizational expenses and incorporation fees from the Springfield-Cape Girardeau Roman Catholic Diocese's portion of the Human Development Fund.

Area residents, soon after the corporation was formed, began making pledges for stock which now total $1,500 to purchase a 2.6-acre site. In September 1971, the effort was further boosted when a $10,000 grant to HACE was made by the national Campaign for Human Development.

Mrs. Willa Mae Brown, HACE treasurer, said the corporation has $22,000 and additional commitments for a total of $36,000. This includes a $5,000 donation from Ralston Purina Company and a $10,000 loan from that company, which is to be repaid in three years.

Construction of a 5,000-square foot model building is expected to begin soon after a building contract is approved.

Mayor Willie B. Hamilton, representives of MDEM, Ralston Purina Co., United Auto Workers, American Life Insurance Co., and HACE board of directors and stockholders will participate in the groundbreaking ceremonies.

HACE board of directors include Mayor Hamilton, chairman; Mrs. Brown, treasurer; Clemmon Duff, secretary; and Bill Cooper, Tom Jennings, Eddie Long and Jack White.

Andy Matz To Manage Burger King

Andy Matz

Early November has been set as tentative opening date of Sikeston Burger King. The new eating facility will be located at East Malone and Elm Street, the former location of Nailling Truck and Tractor Company.

Andy Matz, a 21- year resident of Sikeston currently in training at Burger King in Cape Girardeau, will be the manager. Matz was meat department manager for a food chain store for 20 years before accepting the Burger King job.

A spokesman for Drury Enterprises of Cape Girardeau, owner of several Burger King franchises and other businesses in the area, said there will be room to seat from 75 to 80 in the dining area. Curb service also will be available at 60 parking spaces.

Schantz Says He Could Unify State

Leroy Schantz

SPRINGFIELD — Leroy Schantz considers himself the "A- typical" candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. He feels he is the only candidate who can unite urban and rural Missourians behind one program which will serve the entire state.

The main concerns in Schantz's platform deal with restoring credibility and integrity to the executive branch of government and aiding the economy by broadening the tax base through more tourism promotion, initial location incentives to attract clean industry and better manpower utilization and employment policies.

Schantz, a Bootheel native, was born in 1918 to George and Bertha Schantz, at Dexter where he attended the elementary and high schools.

Schantz received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture from the University of Missouri in 1940 and a master of science degree in public administration in 1966.

His political experience includes two years as assistant county agent in Newton and Chaiton counties; 12 years as recorder of deeds in Greene county; four years as state director of Missouri Division of Employment Security; six years in U. S. Department of Labor, Manpower Administration, U. S. Training and Employment Service; one and one- half years as chief of the division of Immigration; and four and one- half years as chief of the Division of Human Resources Development. He also served four and one- half years in the Army Air Corps during World War II.

Schantz, who now lives in Springfield, is married to the former Peggy Landis of Neosho. They have three married children and two grandchildren.

Other activities include American Legion, Masonic Lodge, Exalted Ruler of Elks Lodge No. 409 and elder of the Presbyterian Church.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Every man thinks his charges are reasonable.

* * *

SOMETHING NEW

Whether describing a political candidate or corn flakes, there is one familiar adjective: NEW. It is Madison Avenue's sine que non. The new politician comes from a new acting studio, not the old smoke-filled room. The new morality is really the old immorality. The new freedom is old promiscuity. The new marriage is the old Roman orgy.

The permissive society (Arlington House) by Dr. Boris Sokoloff, traces the relationship of today's hippies, drugs and incontinence to Freud, concluding that the Austrian "took the individual off the hook of moral responsibility." Yes, the new morality, so highly touted by liberals, is really re-hashed Freud.

Freud, like Lenin, was a strident atheist who wrote vituperative attacks on Christianity. In fact, one purpose of Freud's psychoanalysis was to rid man of the "neuroses of religion."

Example after example is given by Dr. Sokoloff to show that modern liberalism is merely corrupt Freud. Its ethics are contaminated with permissiveness that vitiates it.

But there is hope. Dr. Sokoloff, author of some two dozen books and an internationally famous biologist philosopher, disproves many of Freud's theses with modern science. Religious rebirth among Western nations, especially their youth, is another reason for hope.

"The misery of man and the death of all that is decent in society is unavoidable if we reject God's guidance in our affairs and deny the immorality of the soul," writes the author. He thinks that American liberalism is dying and that the old morality still has a chance.

Anyone interested in the origins of modern permissiveness, its workings and its vulnerability will want to read this scholarly study.

THE DOOMSDAY
SYNDROME

Fear of worldwide catastrophe is one of the byproducts of the nuclear age. But now John Maddox, editor of the British scientific journal, Nature, has suggested that all the fashionable gloom - and -doom talk may be overwrought. In a new book, The Doomsday Syndrome, Maddox contends that ecology is a state of mind which assumes that the worst is always about to happen. He adds that this "doomsday syndrome may in itself be as much a hazard as any of the conundrums which society has created for itself."

In support of his argument, Maddox cites some dire predictions that fell flat. He recalls that Paul Ehrlich wrote in The Population Bomb (1968) that, "The battle to feed all humanity is over. In the 1970s the world will undergo famines; hundreds of millions of people are going to starve to death in spite of any crash programs embarked on now." Maddox maintains that the green revolution has laid that scarecrow to rest. He also quotes Barry Commoner, who asserted in Science and Survival (1963) that "Lake Erie has already been overwhelmed by pollutants and has in effect died." A decade later, Maddox observes, thousands of tons of fish are being harvested from the lake on a commercial basis.

Many British environmentalists are bitterly attacking Maddox for issuing such a long and, in their view, unscholarly complaint. On the other hand, he has found some unexpected allies. The London Daily Express supported his argument in an editorial that stated: "You don't cure problems by exaggerating them." And at last month's U.N. Conference on the Human Environment in Stockholm, the head of the Chinese delegation declared: "On the question of the human environment there is no ground for any negative view."

Historian Philip Toynbee, writing in the London Observer, noted that, "A very large number of informed scientists and reputable economists is now predicting that a combination of pollution, exhaustion of natural resources and population explosion will make world catastrophe inevitable unless dramatic and unprecedented international action can be taken in the next few years." Maddox's retort is that "the most serious danger in the environmental movement is that it may sap the will of advanced communities to face the problems which no doubt lie ahead."

Arthur Burns, the pipe-smoking Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, nearly fell off his father - image pedestal and nearly lost his cool when U. S. Rep. Wright Patman suggested — unthinkable! — an audit of the Federal Reserve. Patman said the Federal Reserve's securities dealings are subsidized through low interest rates which result in "windfall profits." Patman charged on, saying Fed dealers are getting valuable inside information and the Fed's securities operations and statistics are chaotic. Referring to a nickel- dime report on the Fed by the Government Accounting Office, Burns fired back with, "The GAO did not find the reporting system chaotic. I have no objection whatsoever to a financial audit ... if legislation were to specify that the GAO audit were confined simply to the kind of work auditors do. I would have objection to having the GAO begin commentating and advising on monetary policy." He denied that Fed security dealers were getting inside information, a statement as indefensible as his conditions for an audit.

The Czechs seem restless these days, to the point of openly agitating for their freedom. But the effort is certainly hard on the journalists. They keep getting arrested. Jiri Lederer disappeared recently, then on Feb. 2 was sentenced to two years in prison for critical references in Listy, the Czech Writer's journal, to former Polish Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka. Jeri Hochman, former editor of the Czechoslovak Journalist Union Reporter was arrested, as was Vladimir Nepras, a former journalist with the Czech Communist newspaper Rude Pravo. But the Communists were being democratic about the jailings: party officers and professional scientists were also taken into custody. They were Karel Kaplan, a scientists; Jiri Littera, former secretary of the Prague Communist Central Committee, and Karel Bratosek, a historian. The arrests seemed to be connected with action by the Czech Communists against three radio and television writers living in Italy. One was a Czech, Jiri Pelikan, now living in Rome, who had "written materials and instructions to Czechoslovakia inciting hostile individuals and groups to anti-state activities." Another Italian had acted as Pelikan's courier and the third, a former staffer of an Italian Communist newspaper, had committed the crime of "speaking" to Communist officials in Czechoslovakia.

PROGRAM REFUTES U. S.
HIGHWAY CRITICS

Lately, a few professional critics have taken pot-shots at Uncle San's highway building program. They accuse some of wanting to turn the nation into a "ribbon of concrete" and, knowing what's best for everyone else, they vaguely hint that perhaps Americans really shouldn't have the best highway system in the world, after all.

Arguments for a good highway system are so obvious, however, that highway critics are having difficulty making much headway. Certainly, their ideas have made no headway in West Germany where the Bonn government's Ministry of Traffic and Transportation has announced a 15-year road construction program of a magnitude unknown anywhere in the world outside of the United States.

The plan calls for providing West German motorists with thousands of miles of freeways and four-lane expressways by 1985. The program is necessary because there will be about 20 million passenger cars in West Germany in 15 years -- about one for every three inhabitants. (It's an approximate one-to-two ratio in the U.S.).

When the highway building program is completed, no town in Germany will be more than 10 miles from a freeway system. The average will be six miles and in such densley populated areas as the Ruhr, one will never be more than three miles from a freeway.

The program has important aims other than the lessening of overall traffic congestion. Highway systems will be designed to provide better and speedier transportation between various German industrial regions and neighboring countries. They will provide easy access to popular tourists and recreation areas, and also will be designed in such a manner as to provide increased mobility -- and therefore increased job opportunity -- to German citizens in economically -depressed areas.

Highways provide mobility -- and therefore increased freedom -- to everyone. That highway transportation is America's favorite means of transportation is beyond question. A recent professional poll found that 88 per cent of Americans consider the private automobile the "Ideal mode of transportation" for every trip except business trips of more than 500 miles.

Those among us who would restrict our national highway building program -- for whatever reason -- are doing a disservice to the nation, and to each one of us who use our highways, too.

NEW YORK (AP) — Can you still tell the sexes apart?

At first glance?

If you can, you're a marvel. More people are finding it more difficult in more cases.

About half the people over 30 today can't tell easily the sex of about a third of the people they meet who are under 30. In many cases they are still mystified after they follow a doubtful glance with two long stares.

Well, here are a few helpful hints:

If it works as an attendant in a men's room, it is a him. If it works as an attendant in a powder room, it is a her.

Does it sing aloud in the bathroom? Probably it's a guy. Does it hum while sitting at a dressing table and studying its face? It's a gal.

If, when asked at a cocktail party whether it wants another drink, it replies, "Yeah, another belt won't hurt me," put it down as a fellow. If it smiles dimly and says as it holds out its glass, "Well, just a teentsyweentsy bit this time," put it down as another thirsty dame with hollow legs.

You say it warms its hands by putting them in its pockets? It has to be a boy. You say it warms its hands by thrusting them under its arms and hunching its shoulders? It has to be a girl.

Does it hate to write a check for under $25. That's a man. Does it like to write checks for three 8-cent stamps and a 79cent bottle of hand lotion? That's a woman.

Does it assume a hedgehog defense and make menacing hisses if you say something slighting about the women's liberation movement? Beyond doubt it's another embattled femme. If it immediately loses interest or wants to change the subject when you mention the women's liberation movement, beyond doubt it's another cowed male.

A direct actionist can settle his uncertainty most quickly by simply walking up to a strange person and asking simply, "Hey, what sex are you—if any?" If he gets punched in the jaw, it's a man; if he gets slapped in the face, it's a woman.

LIFTING MEAT
IMPORT QUOTAS

President Nixon's decision to suspend the import quotas on meats "to counter recent rises in the cost of meat" is likely to be more a psychological factor than a real one.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz concedes that "increased supplies from abroad will not have an immediate effect in reducing prices in the supermarkets." In fact, the action is not likely to increase the supply of meats appreciably. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz already has said "meat import supplies just aren't there" because "worldwide meat demand has escalated in relation to supply."

The European Common Market has become an extremely competitive market for the exports of Argentina, Australia and New Zealand. The United Kingdom takes all the Irish beef and Canadians are consumg more of their own beef.

The world situation is so tight that everywhere cattle producers are holding back cows and heifers that might go to slaughter in order to use them for breeding.

There just are no easy or immediate answers to the meat problem that both consumerrs and producers are likely to accept at this time.

The only real solution to high demand and short supplies of meat are encouragement of producers to breed more livestock. That is a long- range solution. And such encouragement comes only through producers getting higher prices for what they are producing now. It is a phase we all must live through.

American industry has sounded a "call to arms." At the first assembly of the newly formed Council of Better Business Bureaus, business leaders stated that they are embarking on a crusade with the help of the BBB Council as the voluntary guardian of ethical business practices.

The group aims at narrowing the gap between the promise and the performance by making business more responsive to the valid demands of consumers. It also wants to demonstrate that free enterprise can operate in the public interest more effectively than government agencies.

Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans told the assembly, "You are taking this new action to insure integrity in the marketplace and reliability in business services...The greatest asset of the American enterprise system is the confidence of the consumer...There is nothing basically wrong with our free market or competitive system; all we have to do is to continue the orderly process of perfecting it."

The new council's objectives in helping solve consumer problems will include upgrading and expanding local bureaus; opening new regional offices; updating and strengthening self-regulatory guidelines for advertisers; expanding consumer education programs; creating additional mediation panels to settle consumers' disputes; and developing a computerized consumer information data bank.

Elisha Gray, II, chairman, of the council and chairman of the Whirlpool Corporation, said that, although business is confronted with one of its greatest challenges, the BBB Council has the vehicle to meet that challenge successfully.

SOVIET SPACE WEAPONS?

The disarmament treaty signed in Moscow has been hailed by many as a great step toward peace. But the well-known past record of Soviet disregard of treaties should dampen such enthusiasm. In fact, evidence is currently mounting that the Kremlin has chosen to ignore another recent disarmament agreement.

Five years ago, the Soviets and other space powers promised not to "place in orbit around the earth any objects carrying nuclear weapons or any other kind of weapons of mass destruction." But Dr. Charles Sheldon, chief of the science policy research division at the Congressional Research Service, has revealed that the promise is very probably being broken.

In a 78-page report recently released by the Senate Committee on Aeronautical and Space Sciences, Sheldon pointed out that the Soviets are developing at least three different military space systems. Two of these were previously known to our government: the fractional orbital bombardment system and an inspector destroyer program.

The real danger comes from a third program, a new weapons system which would be launched into orbit by the SS-9 missiles. So far the Soviets have made eleven tests of this system.

The space expert admits that we don't know as much as we should about what the Soviets are doing, but concludes, "Instead of an irrational jumble of inconsistencies, we see there is an orderly pattern even if we do not know its purpose." Mr. Sheldon may not want to say publicly what the purpose is, but there could be only one: a further strengthening of the Soviet offensive arsenal. HLH.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON -- George McGovern has only one chance in five of upsetting President Nixon in the November election.

These are the carefully researched odds of Jimmy the Greek Snyder, the famed Las Vegas oddsmaker, who prepares his political prognostications exclusively for us.

Off the cuff, he rated the President a 4-to-1 favorite on the eve of McGovern's nomination. But now Jimmy has completed a careful comparison of the two candidates, using a point system to rate them.

He has assessed their advantages and disadvantages in three categories: Support, issues and image. Here are Jimmy's calculations:

SUPPORT -- He gives Nixon an 8-to-3 advantage in financial support; 10-to-1, foreign support; 10-to-1, Republicans; 10-to-2, Big Business; 7-to-3, Jewish Americans; 6-to-4, independents; 5-to-4, labor; 5-to-4 women. McGovern is ahead 7-to-3 with youth, 6-to-3 with Democrats and 6-to-3 with minorities. All total led, Nixon has a 70-to-40 advantage.

ISSUES -- Rating how the two candidates stand with the public on the issues, Jimmy believes the President has a 10-to-2 edge over McGovern on foreign affairs; 10-to-2, business; 6-to-1, military; 7-to-3, busing; and 9-to-7, law and order. Jimmy rates both candidates even, 7-to7, on their economic proposals. McGovern is given a 9-to-6 advantage on welfare; 10-to-8, farm subsidies; 9-to-7, federal spending; and 3-to-2, revenue sharing. Summed up, Nixon comes out 72-to-53 ahead of McGovern.

IMAGE -- Although President Nixon has had image troubles, Jimmy rates him higher than McGovern in all categories, as follows: 10-to-7, recognition; 9-to-5, politician; 7-to-5 credibility; 7-to-5, charisma; 7-to-6, intelligence; and 9-to-8, religion. The total Nixon edge is 49-to-37.

By Jimmy's evaluation, Nixon is a 5-to-1 favorite to be re-elected.

CHOU REMEMBERS

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai is still smarting over the late John Foster Dulles's refusal to shake hands with him in 1954.

It happened in Geneva, where the major powers were carving Indochina into spheres of influence. Chou walked toward Dulles and held out his hand. Dulles hesitated, then clasped his hands behind his back.

The Secretary of State muttered, "I cannot," and stalked out of the room.

The slight contributed to 20 years of Chinese-American hostility. Had better relations been achieved, the Korean and Vietnam wars probably could have been avoided.

The Dulles rebuff still burns inside old Chou. He recalled the incident during his recent visit with House leaders Hale Boggs, D-La., and Gerald Ford, R-Mich., in Peking.

Smiling, Chou said that at least Dulles's No. 2 man, Undersecretary Bedell Smith, was a gentleman. Smith held a teapot in his right hand so he had an excuse not to shake hands, recalled Chou. Still, Smith reached over with his left hand and grasped the Chinese Premier's arm.

UGLY RUSSIAN

The best-selling book, "The Ugly American," catalogued the graceless way American officials abroad administered foreign aid in the 1960s.

Now a sequel could be written about the Ugly Russian. From Cairo, for example, the U.S. mission reports that the Russians have alienated their hosts unnecessarily as the Americans did in postwar years.

The Russians have strutted about Egypt as if they were the rulers rather than the guests. The typical Ugly Russian shops in Russian commissaries, attends Russian movies and goes to Russian parties.

He travels to work on roads that are off limits to the Egyptians. Even President Sadat, according to one report, was stopped from visiting a Soviet naval facility. He had to go through the Russian embassy, finally, to get into a naval base in his own country.

Russian military advisers are also inclined to belittle the Egyptian army. To the Ugly Russian, an Egyptian is at best inefficient at worst a coward.

This arrogant, domineering attitude toward the Egyptians is one reason Sadat is now kicking most of them out.

Footnote: Sadat's decision to oust the Russian advisers was triggered by his secret correspondence with Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev. Sadat had requested more sophisticated weapons from the Russians. Instead, Brezhnev sent a letter urging a continued cease fire. He sought to restrain the Egyptians from precipitating another war with Israel. So Sadat told the Russian advisers to get out.

Ironically, President Nixon's inner circle were overjoyed with the news. Now they are having sober second thoughts. A secret intelligence analysis warns that Sadat's expulsion of the Russians removes their restraining influence and may signal renewed hostilities with the Isrealis.

Inside Labor Third Ticket Certain: 'American Party' Chiefs Vow to Run Presidential Slate With or Without Wallace
By Victor Riesel

RICHMOND, Va. --That old Golden Gloves boxing champ, George Wallace, won't come out of his neutral corner of the Democratic Party this campaign. Neither will he bolt the organization. But his American Party will move back into the political ring, name a Presidential ticket without him and fight for his conservative crown.

That's how a top American Party leader, headquartered here, put it the other day. They do expect to have Gov. Wallace's support and even some of his Democratic Party machinery. But "with or without the governor" there's going to be a ticket fielded at their national convention opening in Louisville's (Ky.) Freedom Hall at 10 a.m., August 3. Count on that, it was said the conservative consortium national headquarters in this city.

Actually the American Party, born as the American Independent Party which piled up 9.9 million ballots, 13.5 per cent of the total national vote, for Mr. Wallace in '68, is a coalition. In New York, it's known as the Courage Party because the word American can be used only for the defunct Communist -infested American Labor Party. In Ohio, it is the American Independent Party. In other states it is the Conservative Party.

Here it is led by a swift-talking, accommodating public relations chap, Alexander Hudgins, the coalition's executive director, and T. Cole Andrews, Jr., its national chairman. And they're looking forward to a heated convention, heated contests and sharp debate when the delegations arrive by chartered plane from California, 180 delegates; and by care and train from New York, 82 delegates: and 104 from Illinois, for example, one of who offered Mayor Daley his seat.

There are favorite sons competing for Wallace's toga. One in Florida, some in California and a Cleveland lawyer, Richard B. Kay, who was a civilian consultant to Lt. Calley's legal defense team during the military trial which startled the world.

In all there'll be some 2,000 delegates--and until they gather in Louisville for their political derby, it will be difficult to sketch a profile of the average delegate. But hundreds of them will be working people. There will be a strong labor contingent. At least 102 delegates will be representing Michigan where Wallace whirled up some 810,000 votes in the May 16 primary.

To them the issue will be stop the busing far more than stop the war. And they want a cut in taxes. They're not aboriginals, as the fashion is to paint them. For example, quite to the contrary, two state leaders can match the labor record of many at the Democratic National Convention. One is Charles Ryan, a full-time construction worker living in Camillus, N.Y., near Syracust. He's state chairman. And he heads the American Party's labor committee.

And he is recording secretary of Steamfitters Local 818.

Ryan passes you on to Arthur Cain, American Independent Party state chairman of Ohio.

Cain, after criticizing the Associated Press story which reported George Wallace as accepting the American Party's National Convention invitation, talks of the Ohio organization's labor strength. The headquarters are in offices run by the Rank and File Labor For Wallace committee under the guidance of one Willie Murphree. No novice is he inside labor. Until recently he was president of the United Auto Workers (UAW) Otis Local 451 in that city.

This labor strength is reminiscent of 1968 when Wallace suddenly showed up with enough support to force the national AFL-CIO to put out some 50 million leaflets against him. Now Leonard Woodcock's auto union is might chary of suddenly defying the 810,000 Michigan Wallace votes. When the auto union chiefs met Thursday, they voted to recommend support of George McGovern--and to run a series of rank and file meetings for a consensus. The UAW officialdom took one defeat last May and is not about to smash its political action machinery into another stone wall.

This American Party coalition, a network of affiliates, is almost charismatic working--class districts. It is on the ticket, the national officials here say, in 38 states from the Pacific palisades of Washington, Oregon, and California to the oil tank industrialism of New Jersey and the New England mill states.

They want a voice. They want a leader. They know that Gov. Wallace has told both George McGovern and Hubert Humphrey he will not bolt the party. This was the reason for the cheers of the McGovern youth delegates when the Democratic candidate in his acceptance speech said: "We pray for your speedy and full recovery, so you can stand up and speak out forcefully for all those who see you as their champion." McGovern and the convention interpreted this as standing up inside the Democratic Party.

So the American Party is on its own. Without George Wallace it may or may not roll up a vote. Or it may draft him and force him to deny them. But whatever happens it will be a force--but against which major candidate no one should be cocky enough to predict. It could draw enough votes away from either candidate, depending on the mood, to swing some states and perhaps the national election.

Senate Votes To Stop Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — After voting for the first time to force U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, the Senate has killed the military-foreign-aid bill to which the pullout provision was attached.

In the last of 10 votes that stretched into late Monday night, the $1.785-billion aid authorization was defeated 48 to 42.

By a 50-45 margin, senators voted to cut off funds for U.S. combat operations in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia in four months, provided American war prisoners were released.

The aid bill was the first step in continuing for this fiscal year the U.S. military-aid program for friendly nations. But the Senate vote does not necessarily mean the program is dead.

The House has yet to act on a military-aid authorization; it could send the Senate another version to consider. Or the Senate Foreign Relations Committee could report another aid bill for Senate consideration.

Late last year the Senate defeated the economic-foreign-aid measure for fiscal 1972, only to see it revived in an eleventhhour compromise with the House.

Backers of the end-the-war amendment have vowed to renew the fight. Their next effort will be to attach the amendment to the Defense Department procurement bill now being debated.

In past months the Senate has gone on record several times against continuation of the war, but never has either house voted to cut off money for the fighting.

The aid bill was defeated by an unusual coalition of conservatives and liberals.

ROAD FROM BASELINE GIN to the Morley grade school has been blacktopped with property owners paying proportionate shares. The road will be blacktopped from the gin to the Blodgett road when completed. At a meeting with Louis Hirschowitz, second district county court judge, property owners agreed to pay $3,200 of the required $4,500.

V A Hospitals In State To Share Government Grant

POPLAR BLUFF — The Poplar Bluff Veterans Administration hospital is among four Missouri VA hospitals who have been chosen to share in more than $3.8 million earmarked by the Veterans Administration for improving services.

The announcement also affecting VA hospitals at St. Louis, Kansas City and Columbia, was made by Donald E. Johnson, administrator of veterans affairs, who appeared Sunday before the American Legion's Missouri department.

Johnson announced allocations for Missouri VA hospital at a news conference following his address to the Legionnaire convention in Kansas City.

The Poplar Bluff hospital will receive $477,000 for a pulmonary function laboratory — used for monitoring purposes — and a respiratory care center. The St. Louis hospital will received $2.4 million — more than $1 million going for a new spinal cord injury center. About $750,000 will be for improvements in geriatric care and $65,000 for development of a hypertension screening and treatment center.

The Kansas City hospital will receive $815,000 for a hemodialysis unit and home dialysis training. The newly activated hospital at Columbia will receive about $700,000. Between $300,000 and $400,000 will be used for a cardiac catheterization unit, $72,500 for speech pathology service, $87,000 for a mental hygiene clinic and $142,000 for an electron microscope.

In his speech to the Legionnaires, Johnson told them, "America's living veteran population has grown 3 million in the past three years to an all-time high of nearly 29 million."

"Three years ago VA expenditures in Missouri totaled $197 million — $118 million of which was disability and death compensation and pension payments to disabled veterans and the dependents of deceased veterans. In the fiscal year just ended, VA expenditures in Missouri totaled $721 million."

Johnson reported the VA budget has grown from $7.5 billion to $12.5 billion since fiscal 1969, when he became administrator.

Viets Take Citadel

QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) — About 400 South Vietnamese paratroopers fought their way into the Quang Tri Citadel today through withering North Vietnamese fire.

Despite official claims in Saigon that the paratroopers had won control of the Citadel and the recapture of Quang Tri City was completed, fighting raged in the 19th century fortress through late afternoon. "Not all of the Citadel is occupied yet," an army spokesman in Quang Tri said.

The spokesman, Lt. Col. Do Dang Bo, told newsmen: "I think many North Vietnamese were killed. I do not think any escaped. I hope that perhaps tomorrow you will be able to attend a flag-raising ceremony in the Citadel."

The Citadel was the last bastion of resistance in the devastated provincial capital which the North Vietnamese had occupied on May 1.

An army communique said the first paratroopers entered the Citadel at 10:20 a.m.

Field officers said napalm strikes by the South Vietnamese air force preceded the advance through two openings in the 40-foot walls that U. S. planes had blasted two weeks ago with laser - guided bombs.

Shells burst all around the Citadel as South Vietnamese artillery blazed away, and the North Vietnamese replied with their 122 mm and 133mm guns. A pall of thick, black smoke hung over most of the city, which was in ruins.

Most of the North Vietnamese defenders of Quang Tri had retreated into the Citadel to make a stand there, but no reliable estimate was available of how many of Hanoi's troops were inside the massive walls.

Morley Takes Town Survey

MORLEY — Mayor Olivia Lee today praised the Community Betterment Club for initiating the "community attitude survey" to be taken in the Morley area and urged full cooperation by every citizen.

"This is a great opportunity for Morley, Mrs. Lee stated. "It can be the basis for future growth and prosperity in our community through the interest and efforts of the people in general.

"This is a time for constructive criticism. Not everyone's views on every subject covered by the questionnaire will agree, but I certainly hope that every view will reflect the honest, objective thinking of the people."

The survey is part of a community bettermen program in which the community will work with the Missouri Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

It is a series of 32 questions covering various areas of the community. The people surveyed will be asked to rate the community as "poor, satisfactory or excellent."

The survey findings can then be used as a guide for improvement projects.

Police Make Three Arrests In Charleston

CHARLESTON — Three arrests were reported by the police department Monday night.

Billy B. Williams, 27, of Charleston was fined $108 for driving while intoxicated. Johnny Jones, 23, of Charleston was fined $16 for public intoxication and Larry D. Coleman 17, of Charleston had a $15 fine stayed and was placed on one year probation. He was charged with refusing to obey the reasonable request of an officer.

Dexter Group Reads Water Project Bids

DEXTER — Seventeen separate sealed bids were opened and read Monday night during a special City Council meeting attended by a large crowd of contractors.

The contracts for water facility improvements will be studied and tabulated for awarding at a later date by C. R. Trotter and Associate, Incorporated, consulting engineers.

A 1972 tax levy was approved by the council at $2.55 per $100 assessed valuation. This shows an increase of 38 cents per $100 valuation over last year's tax levy of $2.17. Mayor Willis Conner pointed out the increase included three bond issues for a new fire station and equipment, sewage system improvement and water works improvements voted by city residents.

Council members agreed this was far from the expected 45- cent increase as publicized at the time the bond issues were voted on.

Mayor Conner reported on his recent trip to the board of director meeting of the Missouri Municipal League in Jefferson City. He outlined the main points of recommendations to be made by the league to the next session of the state legislature.

Mayor Conner also reported on a solid waste advisory committee meeting held July 18 at Kennett. He said a deadline date of June 30, 1973, has been set, after which cities and counties must have permits to dispose of solid waste.

Two ordinances were passed by the council approving special tax bills for the paving of two blocks of East Elk and two blocks of East Oak streets.

A plumbing license was approved for William DePriest.

Fire Damages Truck Bed

Firemen were called to extinquish a fire on a garbage truck at 11:50 a.m. Monday on Highway 61 North near Northside Church of Christ.

The fire was caused after material from a hot trash barrel was poured into the back of the truck. Damage was confined to the bed. The truck is owned by Maynard Eberly.

Lilbourn Man Robbed At Knife Point

NEW MADRID — Robert H. Lee, Jr., of Lilbourn reported to city police this morning that he was robbed of $107 at knife-point by two men when he left a Greyhound bus at 3:12 a.m. at the bus stop on Highway 61.

Lee, who boarded the bus in St. Louis, said the driver was unaware the two were holding a knife to his back when they offered to help Lee leave the bus. After taking his money, Lee said the pair returned to the bus which left for Memphis, and he failed to get his suitcase.

Car Stolen At School

A yellow 1965 Ford belonging to Sharon Allen, 406 South Allen in Bernie, was stolen over the weekend from the parking lot at Sikeston Senior High School, according to police.

The car was left at the school to have repairs made at the automotive shop. It was missing on Monday.

Malden City Council Talks On Annexation

MALDEN — At a city council meeting Monday night council members discussed annexations, parking meters and heard a request from the senior citizens group.

Council members agreed to drop all annexation suits and to file new suits to bring the Stokes- Cohen Addition west of the city and the Don Gregory addition southwest of the city.

No action was taken on installing parking meters on South Decatur Street from Main to Laclede streets and from West Laclede street to the alley west of Beckwith street and on the east side of Beckwith street between Main and Laclede streets.

Senior citizens were given permission to sell soup and sandwiches at their clubhouse at noon every day and to have a luncheon once a month.

Council members agreed to have City Attorney Gordon Fritz draw up necessary papers to abandon an alley on South Beckwith street running to the compress. The property will be sold to Ira Green who owns property adjoining the alley.

The four taxi cab operators in town will be allowed to rent a parking meter space on the corners of Laclede and Madison Streets at $20 per month for each taxi.

In other business a motion was made to buy more chat for the street department to use in blacktopping.

Hancock Stays On Ballot

CENTERVILLE, Mo. (AP) — State Rep. Don Hancock, DDoniphan won a court fight Monday to have his name placed on the Aug. 8 primary ballot for re-election in the 153rd District.

Judge Herbert Lasky of St. Louis County Circuit Court ruled in favor of Hancock on a suit challenging the four-term legislator's residency. The case was heard in Reynolds County.

Walter Baker of Ellington contended in the suit that Hancock and his family lived in Jefferson City for 21 months while Hancock was representing the Southeast Missouri district.

Hancock is opposed for the Democratic nomination by James C. Skaggs of Ellington. The 153rd District is composed of Carter and Shannon counties and parts of Reynolds, Reipley and Oregon counties.

The Case of The Inconsiderate Guest

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Roger invited Mr. Newcomer to his home for dinner only to discover that Newcomer was a late goer. As the hours passed, he stayed and stayed. In fact, not even Roger's polite yawns were able to untrench his guest. About midnight, Mr. Newcomer complained of feeling sick and requested permission to remain overnight.

As far as Roger was concerned, that was the last straw. He handed Mr. Newcomer his hat and sent him on his way into a raging snowstorm. Unfortunately, he didn't get very far. As soon as Roger slammed the door behind him, Mr. Newcomer fainted in the snow and wasn't discovered until two hours later, as stiff as a board, on Rogers's doorstep.

When ultimately thawed out, Mr. Newcomer sued Roger for his having suffered a servere caseof frostbite.

"I wouldn't have sent my worst enemy out on a night like that," complained the erstwhile guest in court, "no less a sick friend. It was so cold out that even the water on my knee froze."

It was his own fault," responded Roger. "Nothing would have happened had he gone home at a reasonable hour like any other considerate person. As for letting him stay over, I wasn't running a hotel."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the inconsiderate guest to collect for his frostbite?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that when a person invites another to his home for dinner, humanity, as well as the law, requires that he may not expose him to the merciless elements by sending him home in a helpless condition. (Based upon a 1907 Minnesota Supreme Court Decision)

Ann Landers

Face Lift Can Boost Morale

Dear Ann Landers: May i say a word to "Teresa," the woman who wants a face-lift but can't make up her mind? I was in her shoes a year ago at age 45. My friends were asking me with increased frequency if I was unwell or tired. The bags under my eyes and my drooping lids made me look perpeturally exhusted, hung-over or ill.

It got so bad I hated to look at myself in the mirror. I never was a vain person, but the appearance of wrinkles and bags had a very depressing effect on me. I discussed a face-lift with my husband and he assured me that I looked great the way I was. When I reported his comments to the plastic surgeon he said, "Most husbands react that way. They don't want to be responsible for surgery of any kind."

I went ahead with the face-lift. After a three-week healing period, during which I was swollen, black-and-blue and a real mess, I can say without exaggerating that I was thrilled with the results.

A woman who is pleased with her looks is easier to live wiht. You said in a recent column that most face-lifts are done for emotional reasons rather than cosmetic reasons -- that a woman who has a face-lift frequently thinks it's going to make a big difference in her lift, and of course it doesn't. Well, Ann, maybe it doesn't change a person's life, but it can certainly boost the morale and THAT'S a good enough change for me. --- Happier In Albuquerque

Dear Happier: If you feel good about your face-lift, and obviously you do, it was the right decision. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the secretary who was pregnant and wanted to stay on the job "until they have to rush me by ambulance to the hospital to deliver." It seems her boss's wife wanted her out of the office in her seventh month because her presence was "embarrassing."

The problem has been solved in Washington, D.C. It is now a matter of law. I hope all employed women everywhere are aware of the legislation which was signed by President Nixon March 24th. To deny a woman employment because she is pregnant is in direct violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, according to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Pregnancy and all disabilities related to it are treated the same as any other temporary disability in terms of leave time, seniority, reinstatement, and insurance payments. Pass the word, Ann. -- Wm. J. Cameron, M.D., Dept. of Obstetrics and Gynecology, University of Kansas, In K.C.

Dear Dr. Cameron: Consider it passed and thank you for writing. (P.S. Are you aware that Paternity Leave is being offered by some companies? Yup. Poppa gets time off with pay!)

Dear Ann Landers: A lot of people who hate pets twist the facts to make it look like pets are taking over the country. A magazine article had this headline: "Pets outnumber people three to one." When I read the first paragraph I discovered "pets" meant canaries, parakeets, hamsters, goldfish, turtles and ponies as well as dogs and cats. This isn't fair. Please set the record straight. --- Animal Lover

Dear Lover: The record IS straight. What would YOU call them?

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's bookelt, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 35 cents in coin to this newspaper.

Births

MAYS — Mr. and Mrs. Allen Mays of Sikeston are parents of a daughter, Heather Dea, born Sunday at 8:21 p.m. in Missouri Delta Community Hospital. She weighed six pounds, eight ounces and is the third child, second daughter.

Mrs. Mays is the former Frances Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Harper of Charleston. Mays is principal at Southeast Elementary School.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Lee Lewis

Lewis-Appleton

MOREHOUSE -- The marriage of Joan Elizabeth Appleton to Maxwell Lee Lewis was solemnized July 1 at 2 p.m. in United Pentecostal Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mary Appleton of Morehouse and the late Lucian Appleton. The groom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Nathaniel Lewis of Morehouse.

The groom's father performed the marriage ceremony.

Michael Lee Grigery of Sikeston, organist, accompanied Vicki Gromer of Elwood, Ind., as she sang, "I Love You Truly", "We've Only Just Begun" and "I Am Yours and You Are Mine".

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Ronnie Appleton, wore a full- length bridal gown of nylon sheer with acetate and nylon lace appliques trimming the A- line skirt and the sheer illusion yoke. Ribbon trimmed with lace daisies accented the waistline and Juliet- style sleeves.

Margaret Appleton, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Betty Lewis of Parma, Sherry Lewis of Lilbourn and Karla Lewis of Morehouse.

Martha McWhirter, foster sister of the bride, was flower girl. Marcella Appleton, niece of the bride, marched down the aisle dressed as a miniature bride.

Charles Lewis of Moringquin, La., was best man. Groomsmen were Jackie Lewis of Parma and Rodger Abernathy and Larkie Lewis, both of Morehouse.

Ushers were Kip Reischman of Morehouse and Larry Appleton of Sikeston, brother of the bridge. Larkie Lewis and Bruce Appleton of Morehouse, brother of the bride, were candlelighters.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall, after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Silver Dollar City at Branson. They will live in Canalou, where the groom is engaged in farming.

The new Mrs. Lewis is a 1970 graduate of Morehouse High School and Lewis is a graduate of Sikeston High School.

Bootheel Youth Fair Planned For August

Plans for the Bootheel Youth Fair to be held Aug. 8 through 12 in Sikeston are being finalized.

The fair is open to all youths 8 to 19 years old, who live in Scott, Stoddard, New Madrid, Mississippi, Dunklin and Pemiscot counties. Youth groups to participate include Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H, Future Homemakers of America, Future Farmers of America and any other interested youth groups or individuals.

A horse show will be held at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 8 in the Sikeston Horseman's Club arena. There will be 11 classes with five ribbons being awarded in each class plus a jackpot show. For further information, contact Charles Lentz of Sikeston Route Two.

The deadline for the dress revue, public speaking and amateur talent contest is Aug. 1. These events will be held Aug. 9 in Sikeston Activity Center. Anyone wishing to enter any of these contests may contact Mrs. Gerald Jackson, 316 Powers in Sikeston.

Money prizes and ribbons will be given in the dress revue, public speaking contest and amateur talent contest.

Exhibits and displays may be entered Aug. 9 between 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. at Kingsway Plaza Mall. Exhibits may be entered in foods, clothing, woodwork, electricity, field crops, vegetables, photography, entomology, child care, crafts, hobbies, conservation, art, home improvement and home management and home grounds. Contact Ray Leonard, 1013 Davis in Sikeston.

The exhibits will be open for public viewing Aug. 10, 11 and 12. They will be removed by 5 p.m. Aug. 12.

A livestock show will be held Aug. 12 in the Beck and McCord Auction Barn. The beef cattle show begins at 8:30 a.m. and the swine show will begin at 9:30 a.m. Contact Peter Myers, 1007 Davis Blvd. in Sikeston, for information.

There will be two showmanship awards given in beef cattle and two in swine competition. All exhibitors are limited to two exhibits per class.

A tractor rodeo will be held at 1:30 a.m. Aug. 12 at Midtowner Village Shopping Center. To enter, a youth must be 14 years or older and have their parents sign an approval form. First prize will be $35, second prixe, $25, and third prize, $15. Contact Ed Robertson, Charleston Box 41, for information.

At 1 p.m. Aug. 12 demonstrations and illustrated talks will be given in Kingsway Plaza Mall.

For further information contact any University of Missouri Extenstion Center or one of the above named individuals.

College News

Jammie Beaird, Chyrl Curry, Jane Gray and Juliann Tanner, all of Sikeston, have attended pre-registration sessions at Arkansas State University in Jonesboro. They will report for an orientation and registration period Aug. 28-30.

High Fashion Stays Among Rich Women

PARIS (AP) -- "Would you wear costime jewelry if you can go to Harry Winston?"

Marc Bohan, designer for the Dior house of fashion, asks the rhetorical question, dropping the name of the man who sells diamonds.

The question is really an answer — to all those nasty rumors that high fashion is disappearing.

Next week the Paris houses show their fall collections. All the couturiers reason. that it's still better to wear beautiful clothes that fit than funny ones that don't.

"Why shouldn't a rich woman spend her money?" demands Pierre Cardin. "Putting it in the bank is dishonest.

"The couture isn't dead. It just looks different. If there were only popular things in life, it would be total ennui. A beautiful car is as good as a sculpture from a moral point of view."

"After all," says Cardin, "one goes to Cannes to see films. One goes to Paris for dresses."

Warf Wins Tourney

Jim Warf, Jr., repeated as champion of the Sikeston Country Club invitational golf tournament over the weekend and moved within one victory of claiming permanent possession of the coveted Buckner - Ragsdale traveling trophy.

Warf shot a 136 to nudge Buddy Godwin of Poplar Bluff by one stroke for the title. Jan Jansco of Johnson City, Ill., carded a 138 for third. Connie Connell of Cape Girardeau placed fourth with 139 and Virgil Powell of Malden and Charles Webber of Cape Girardeau shot 141's for a fifth place tie.

In what has been described as the best field of golfers and being the biggest invitational of the year, 118 contestants converged for the Sikeston Invitational Entries in five classes battled the 36-hole distance.

In Class A, David Newberry of Sikeston shot 146 to take first place. Arlon Kohler of Imperial, Mo., also shot a 146, taking second after a tie-breaking playoff. Gary Adkins' 147 was third best in the class. Mack Bain of Sikeston and Jim Thompson of Jackson were deadlocked for fourth place with 148's and decided to divide the prizes, but for the record Thompson yielded fourth to Bain.

John Steele of West Frankfort, Ill., finished with a seven - stroke lead over the next best contender in Class B to take an easy first with a score of 150. Tharon Stallings and Charles Dye, both of Sikeston, shot 157's to take second and third places respectively, dividing the prizes. Cary Austin of West Frankfort scored a 161 for fourth place and Jack Knowland of Jackson shot a 162 for fifth.

Sikeston golfers held the winning positions in the C and D classes. Results are listed below:

Gibson Center of Controversy

ATLANTA (AP) — Bob Gibson reluctantly throws the first pitch tonight in the 43rd AllStar baseball game, claiming all the while: "I didn't want to start."

The St. Louis Cardinal righthander, less than overjoyed about his assignment for the National League, faces Jim Palmer of the American League at Atlanta Stadium.

"If I had my druthers, I wouldn't start this All-Star Game," said Gibson, the hottest pitcher in baseball with 11 straight victories. "I'd much rather just pitch one inning— and leave. An All-Star assignment might be an honor, but it's hard work, too."

Gibson matches serves with Palmer, the right-handed Baltimore Oriole ace, before a full house of 52,744 while about 50 million more are expected to watch on national television. The game starts at 8:30 p.m., EDT.

Gibson, historically a fierce competitor, created controversy with his position on the All-Star Game.

"Yes, I said that I didn't want to start but I didn't say that I didn't want to pitch—the writers said that," Gibson remarked Monday at a press conference, referring to a recent newspaper story.

The hard-throwing hurler said that he preferred to work just one inning in relief so that it wouldn't interfere with his normal rotation during the regular season. It's usually the practice for an All-Star starter to complete three innings.

While the talkative Gibson spoke his mind, Palmer remained a silent starter on the eve of the midsummer classic. Palmer was absent from the press conference, but Earl Weaver, his manager at Baltimore and the boss of the American League team, had enough to say for both.

"This game is important to me and to every player in it," said Weaver, responding to Gibson's posture. "I don't think anybody should say he doesn't want to play. Ninety-five per cent of the gate from this game goes into the pension fund. This pays for my retirement and his (Gibson's) and he'd better not forget it."

Weaver, producing newspaper clippings quoting Gibson's outspoken comments, added: "It's something that shouldn't have been said. I'm sure he's happy to be here and he'll go out and do a job, especially after me popping off."

National League Manager Danny Murtaugh seemed unrattled by the Gibson storm.

"I haven't seen any article," said the former Pittsburgh manager. "What did he say?"

When Weaver produced the clippings, Murtaugh glanced at them and said: "Well, Bob and I have different ideas. I named him as my starter ... and I'm going to start him."

Murtaugh refused to commit himself past the first three innings, although he has a quantity of powerful pitching arms to choose from, including New York's Tom Seaver, Steve Blass of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Philadelphia Phillies' Steve Carlton and Don Sutton of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

But with all that reserve pitching help, the National League is a 7-5 favorite based heavily on slugging stars—including Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, the major league's home run and RBI leader with 24 and 72.

Also helping to load the odds against the American League and boost the Nationals' series edge of 23 victories, 18 losses and one tie, is a power-stacked lineup that can easily reach the fences at Atlanta Stadium, a hitter's paradise called "The Launching Pad."

Included among them is the ever-present Hank Aaron, playing in his 21st All-Star Game. The Atlanta Braves' slugger, who has hit many of his career 659 home runs here, expects there will be more than one ball leaving the cozy park Tuesday night.

Aaron, despite a history of poor All-Star performances, will be hitting No. 3 in the National League lineup. Joe Morgan, Cincinnati's second baseman, is the Nationals' leadoff man, followed by Pittsburgh center fielder Roberto Clemente.

Willie Stargell, Pittsburgh's left fielder, will hit in the cleanup spot, followed by Bench. Houston first baseman Lee May will bat sixth, third baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis, seventh, and Chicago shortstop Don Kessinger is Murtaugh's No. 8 hitter while Gibson, one of the best-hitting pitchers in the game, will bat ninth.

Weaver, hoping to duplicate last year's 6-4 American League triumph at Detroit, insists he's going all-out to win this one.

"I'll use my players as I think they'll help me to win the game ... and I hope that I use them at the right time," said Weaver.

Weaver said that he plans to use 17-game-winner Mickey Lolich of Detroit and Cleveland's Gaylord Perry right behind Palmer "depending on Murtaugh's strategy."

Rod Carew, Minnesota's fine second baseman, is Weaver's leadoff batter. New York Yankee center fielder Bobby Murcer is the No. 2 hitter in the Americans' lineup, followed by 3-4-5 batters right fielder Reggie Jackson of Oakland; Chicago first baseman Dick Allen and left fielder Carl Yastrzemski of Boston. Shortstop Bobby Grich of Baltimore; Orioles' third baseman Brooks Robinson; catcher Bill Freehan of Detrmit and Palmer round out the Americans' lineup.

Just One Of the Guys

NEW YORK—(NEA)—It's nobody's business who won or lost.

I played Debbie (The Pearl) Mason three games of one-on-one basketball recently. We played in the Queens College gym, her home court. It began as an odd experience, and it ended that way.

I mean, playing against a woman is not like playing against Big Red at the Y, although Big Red also defies logic sometimes. Like he'll wear one black gym shoe and one white gym shoe and explain, "So what, they're almost the same size, aren't they?"

Which brings up a second point of this strange, intersex game: my grunting male chauvinism. I was a little cross-eyed at the thought of losing to a broad.

I had heard about Debbie Mason. About how she was the star of the Queens College women's basketball team last season, while only a freshman. About how she led the team to the New York State championship (she was named the outstanding player) and to fifth place in the national tournament.

And I had heard about her moves, the quick hips and double-pump jumps that made the crowds roar and that, inevitably, pinned on her the nickname, "The Pearl," in admiring comparison to Earl Monroe of the New York Knicks.

And I had heard that Debbie had recently been invited to participate in the U.S. women's basketball team tryouts. Between 50 and 75 women have been asked to come to the training camp at Parsons College in Iowa from Aug. 26 to Sept. 9. Sixteen will be chosen to play in the World Games in Moscow in 1973.

"The guys don't take me too seriously at first," she says, amiably. "But soon they say, 'I'd better start playin' some defense.' By then it's too late."

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Harry Caponi, father of professional golfers Donna Young and Janet LePera, has died of a stroke at age 49.

Caponi, golf pro at Studio City course near here, suffered a stroke last week and died Sunday night. Both his married daughters play on the Women's Professional Golf association tour.

Rain Slows Play

The Sikeston Little League Tournament got off to a sluggish start Monday night with only one of the slated first-round bouts taking place. In the American League's Western Division, fifth seeded Bridger surprised the No. 3 positioned Flower Basket by clawing out a 9-8 victory.

Bridger started by immediately grabbing the upper hand, scoring a 1-0 advantage in the first inning. The scene was reversed in the second inning as Flower Basket ignited a seven- run campaign in its bid for victory, but could only accumulate one more run against a determined Bridger. The winning squad chalked up its second marker in the third inning and came back to file seven men across the plate in the fourth to take the one-run verdict.

Doster was the hurler for Bridger, going all four innings and fanning seven batters. Overby suffered the loss for Flower Basket.

Bridger's catcher, T. Holifield, tripled and the shortstop, D. Holifield, had a double to guide the final - inning fiasco.

Overby slammed a triple and Greer connected for two doubles Divinny had one two - bagger for Flower Basket.

LUENBURG, N.S. (AP) — Kathi Anne II, owned and skippered by David Stevens of Lunenburg, Monday won the first race of a best-of-3 competition in the international schooner races, completing the 17.5-mile course in 4 hours and 4 minutes.

Outward Bound, the U.S. entry, owned and skippered by Milton Craig of Dedham, Mass., was left far behind.

The two vessels will race again Wednesday, and a third race, if necessary, will be held Friday. The event is part of the 36th annual Nova Scotia fisheries exhibition being held here.

Gabriel and His Scars Face Another Season

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. — (NEA) — The man who has been called the world's biggest Filipino carried his golf clubs slung over his back, papoose style. Roman Gabriel shunned cart and caddy on the hilly Lake Tahoe links. He had to get his knees into shape for the grovel and grind of another pro football season with the Los Angeles Rams.

Roman has had four knee operations in three years. He doesn't think it was an accident.

"Defensive linemen," he says, "go more for the quarterback's knees than they ever have. And they don't call roughing the passer. Now it's taught to a player to hit a quarterback at the knees and get him out of the game, even if he's already falling and is out of the play."

So Roman is determined to get out of the way as fast as he can. At 31, he has trimmed back to a hard 215 pounds, his weight a decade ago at North Carolina State. With his tawny black hair straight down to the shoulders and his burnt umber complexion, he looks like one of the flat-bellied braves who used to survive High Sierra winters.

From his grandeur of six feet four inches, Roman always looked indestructible against the assaults of blitzing linebackers and charging front fours. But he's now stitched with the incisions of modern surgery.

Seams were exposed after Roman had his greatest season in 1969 and was the most valuable player in the NFL.

Roman Gabriel

He submitted to a dual operation to mend both the medial and lateral cartilage in his right knee. After the 1970 season, he had surgery on the right knee again to repair the lateral cartilage because the knee had become arthritic and bone chips were floating around in it. Recently, there was more of the same, same knee.

"I played all of 1971," he says, "not being able to straighten out my right knee or flex it. And all the pounding on astroturf built up fibrous tissue so that I had a bump the size of a silver dollar on the front of the knee. Cortisone shots I had taken years before calcified in the back of the knee in three spots. I had an operation in late December to remove them. I went back into the hospital two months ago to have the fibrous tissue taken out.

"They gave me knockout shots at 6.30 in the morning. At 8:30, time for surgery, I was still awake. They gave me another shot of novocaine and it still didn't put me to sleep. Neither did a fourth shot during the operation. I guess I wanted to see what was going on."

Roman's not quite as unflappable as he looks.

"I more or less keep injuries to myself," he says. "It's tough enough playing football when you're healthy to let them know when you're not. I'll tell you what it's like to have a bad knee. Even in practice when you drop back to throw there's a pain like a knife. You come home for dinner and you have to put your leg up and then it stiffens.

"In 1970, I had an operation on my right elbow to remove calcium deposits. I couldn't straighten the arm out or touch my shoulder. Last season was the first time I was booed since I was with the Rams. It was a tough year. I played with separated ribs."

And yet there's no thought of retirement, though Roman is well fixed with outside interests.

"I play football," he says, "because there's still a challenge for me and I enjoy it. The money is a secondary thing. I want to get in the Super Bowl.

"In football, I get emotionally high because I'm the quarterback. And when things don't go right, you get emotional."

Hollway Looks At Five QB's

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Coach Bob Hollway of the St. Louis football Cardinals looked at five quarterbacks Monday in a scrimmage with the college all-star team

"I thought our pass protection was good, despite the fact it was our first scrimmage of the year," said Hollway. "Considering we used three different units, our over-all defense wasn't that bad."

The Big Red pilot sent in regulars Pete Beathard, Gary Cuozzo and Jim Hart plus reserve Jim Van Elder and Rookie Mike Franks against the college stars. Cardinal quarterbacks completed 13 of 37 passes, with four interceptions.

The all-stars used Jerry Tagge, Van Brownson and Pat Sullivan at quarterback. The trio completed 15 of 30 passes, with two going to wide receiver Bob Moore, the top Cardinals draft pick.

College defensive lineman Walt Patulski of Notre Dame was taken out of the game with an injured knee. Patulski was the number one draft pick of the Buffalo Bills.

A spokesman at an Evanston, Ill., hospital said x-rays were negative on Patulski's knee. But he said the college star may have aggravated an old injury and is questionable for the game with the world champion Dallas Cowboys.

IT'S A BIG ONE. George Morris of Sikeston latched onto one of the "big ones" last Thursday when he pulled in this 12-pound catfish near Sikeston at a place he called a "favorite fishin' hole." Morris caught the 29-incher on six-pound test line.

Durocher 'Steps Aside'

ATLANTA (AP) — Leo Durocher, who took over the downtrodden Chicago Cubs in 1966 and made them pennant contenders a year later, has "stepped aside" as manager.

Vice President John Holland used that phrase in making the announcement early today, leaving it unclear whether The Lip had quit or been fired.

In any case, Whitey Lockman, director of player development, is the man picked by owner Phil Wrigley to revive the Cubs. They are currently languishing in fourth place in the National League East, 10 games out of first.

The Chicago Sun-Times reported today that Wrigley had summoned Durocher to his apartment Monday night for a top-secret meeting, the second such summit conference in nine months.

Lockman, former New York Giants first baseman under Durocher, denied that the Cubs are suffering from morale problems.

"Of course, I haven't been too close to the team in my position this year," he added in an interview today, his 46th birthday.

He said he was hard put to diagnose the team's ineffectiveness.

"You have to remember that Pittsburgh and St. Louis have been playing exceptionally well," he said.

Lockman, Holland and other Cubs staff were in Atlanta for tonight's All-Star game, in which Cub shortstop Don Kessinger is starting for the National League.

Durocher had dropped from sight and was unavailable for comment.

No big player changes are anticipated, said Lockman, and managing policies are not expected to be drastically revamped.

Lockman spent 15 years as a player in the majors, coming up in 1945 and retiring after the 1959 season with Baltimore and Cincinnati. He played under Durocher when he managed New York for 7½ years in the late 40s and early 50s.

Lockman's first assignment after joining the Cubs' organization in 1964 was to manage Dallas-Fort Worth in the Texas League. He guided the team to a first-place tie and was named Manager of the Year in the league.

From 1967 to 1970 Lockman managed the Tacoma Cubs of the Pacific Coast League. The Cubs won the PCL championship in 1969 and he picked up his second Manager of the Year award.

In 1970 he was appointed supervisor of player development — a minor league job — and two years later he was appointed assistant to the vice president.

Lockman claimed to have no knowledge of players' discontent with Durocher's managing, although such strife was apparent last year.

McGowan Tops Duffers

MALDEN — A total of 72 golfers competed over the weekend in the Malden duffers' tournament.

The officials broke the scoring at 91, advancing all with lower scores into "Cheaters" category and placing the remaining golfers into four other classes.

Mike Keller of Kennett won the Cheaters' class with a low score of 85. Dolph Riggs of Kennett was the champion duffer with a final score of 151.

A sudden - death playoff divided a four-way tie in the championship class, with Jack McGowan of Bernie taking first in the competition with 91. Robbie Darnell of Malden took second, Alvin Butler of Piggott, Ark. placed third, and Charles Hartwell of Fagus was fourth, all with 91's. A score of 92 by Frank Wyer of Cudahy, Calif., placed fifth.

George Cahail of Gideon shot a 91 to win A class. Jerry Dorch of Kennett shot a 92 for second. Earl Kegley of Piggott tied Jerold Stafford of Malden for third with scores of 94 and Kegley taking the No. 3 spot after a flip. Wayne Waltrip of Piggott scored a 95 for fifth best.

Towny Sparks of Kennett topped B class with a 94. Lemual Smith of Holcomb shot 96 for second best. Gerald Robison of Kennett had a score of 98 to place third. Fred Meystett of Cape Girardeau shot an even 100 for fourth and Jim Rogers of Piggott placed fifth with 101.

In C class, George McGaughey of Poplar Bluff won with a score of 104. Bob McGowan of Fisk shot 106 for second. Welton Oakes of Kennett captured third place after a tie-breaking flip handed fourth to Edmund Hurst of Nimmons, Ark., when both turned in scores of 108. Fifth position went to Allen Garrett of Kennett with 109.

Golf equipment was awarded to the winners in each division.

Tracey, Medler Win

DEXTER — The results were more than successful as the first annual George Sisler Memorial Four-Ball Golf Tournament at the Dexter County Club opened competition over the weekend. Fifty-eight two-man teams turned out for the event which will be held yearly in honor of the well - known area golfer who was a Vietnam war casualty.

Carl Tracey and Chet Medler of Dexter were the top-ranking golfers after topping the championship class with a score of 133. The Dexter team of Yewell Camp and Glenn Medler was second best with a a score of 136. The No. 3 spot went to Pat Donnellan and Dr. Jerry McLain of Poplar with 173.

A 136, belonging to David Agee and Mich Lynch, both of Dexter, was the lowest mark in A class. Joe Litz of Piggott, Ark., and Yewell Lawrence of Dexter achieved a 137 total and second place after getting the upper hand in a flip of the coin. Third place went to Bobby Jibben of Dexter and Ron Cohen of Malden, also with 137. Woody Simmons and Mike Uhls of Charleston took fourth with 139. Fifth place was filled by Gary James and Bill Webb of Dexter with a score of 140.

Herb Moore and Bill Marvell of Poplar Bluff were winners in B class with 144. Second went to Mike Saracini of West Memphis, Ark., and Leo Saracini of Poplar Bluff with a joint effort of 146. Two Dexter teams tied for third with 147 totals. Hap Lynn and Bill Lawson took third after a flip, handing fourth to Jim Hall and Don Lincoln. Bob Hampton and Mike Carter of Charleston took fifth with 148 after the flip put Danny Winchel and Mark McQuary of Cape Girardeau in sixth position, also with 148.

Wilbur McClain and Kenny Davis of Bloomfield shot 154 to take first in the C class. Dave Cummins and Larry Wadlington of Advance shot 155 for second. A 156 by Clarence Ackman and Jim Lawrence of Dexter was third best in the competition. Howell Jean and John Deem with 157 and Dr. Rehm and Rod O'Donnall with 158, all of Dexter, took fourth and fifth places respectively.

A total of $1,200 in trophies and merchandise was given away.

MALDEN — Ricky Dockins worked six complete innings in pitching the Malden Yellows to an 8-5 victory over Qulin in opening round play of the 16-team invitational Little League baseball tournament Monday night. Two other games were rained out.

Wilbur Thorton, tournament chairman, reported today that action will resume at 5 p.m. with North Pemiscot and Fisk locked in a scoreless deadlock going into the top of the second inning.

Gideon is scheduled against Neelyville at 6:30 and Parma will battle Matthews at 8 p.m. in a revised schedule. Parma and Matthews were originally set to play at 5 today.

Jackson Masters Dexter

SCOTT CITY— North County Connie Mack baseball team will represent Southeast Missouri in the state tournament at Independence over the weekend after knocking off defending champion Dexter, 12-6.

Jeff Jackson, the tall and talented righthander who led Kelly into the state high school tournament in May, has won eight of the team's 11 games and picked up the victory over Dexter Saturday.

A number of the athletes who performed with Jackson on the KHS district championship team is competing with North County.

Gibson Player of Week

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals' hurler Bob Gibson, who won his 10th and 11th consecutive games during July 17-July 23, today was named National League Player of the Week for that period by Charles S. Feeney, the league president.

Gibson, who beat the Houston Astros and Atlanta Braves to run his record to 11-5, had 18 strikeouts and allowed just three runs in 18 innings during the week.

Herb Teas Used for Ailments

By DAVID A. KIRKBY
Associated Press Writer

LISBON (AP) — Abel Rodrigues never went to medical school. But every week hundreds of Portuguese visit his Lisbon shop seeking relief from various ailments.

Rodrigues' treatment is simple. He prescribes three cups a day of one of his herbal tea mixtures.

According to Rodrigues, this usually effects a cure within two to three weeks.

Rodrigues is the owner of one of more than 500 "ervanarias" or herb shops which exist in Portugal.

Herbal teas have been popular in Portugal for hundreds of years.

"As a matter of fact," says Rodrigues, "people were drinking these teas long before anyone had heard of penicillin, chloroform or other aspects of modern medicine."

There are no miracle ingredients in herbal teas. Just roots and plants such as rosemary and senna leaves which can be found growing wild in many parts of Portugal. Others, such as aniseed and eucalyptus, are imported.

"While many people may be skeptical about the curative powers of the teas, it is a fact that big international pharmaceutical companies use the same plants as we do in the preparation of their medicines," Rodrigues explained. "The only difference is that they extract certain substances whereas we use the whole plant."

Rodrigues sells 35 kinds of herbal teas. Some are claimed to be suitable for several different illnesses.

The teas are made from secret formulas which have been handed down in the family for generation after generation.

A 10 day supply of one of the teas will cost between 80 cents to $1.60.

Rodrigues thinks herbal teas are popular because of the fear many people have of going to a doctor.

Rodrigues, who needs no license to run his business, does not pretend to set himself up as a doctor.

"Obviously there are many things I cannot cure.

"And so if a client comes into my shop and I can see he is seriously ill or if he has an ailment for which I have no remedy then I have no hesitation in advising him to go to a doctor."

Rodrigues says herbalists regard themselves as pharmacists.

"If you have a headache or pains in your stomach, then you usually go to a pharmacy to obtain a pain reliever which does not require a doctor's prescription.

"The same is true here except that we cure the natural way."

Rodrigues, a robust and active 64-year-old, drinks his own teas regularly.

Bank Robbery Money Recovered

LUTESVILLE — Robert Chase, the man who has been held as a prime suspect in the May 22 armed robbery of the Bollinger County Bank at Lutesville, Saturday admitted the crime and led officers to the gun he used and the money he stole.

Chase, a Chicago - area man who robbed the bank on his 30th birthday anniversary, had been held in lieu of $25,000 bond in the Bollinger County Jail. Officers admitted they had little evidence on Chase, although they considered it a "strange coincidence" for him to show up on foot in the search area the day after the robbery. He was freed from a Wisconsin prison last year after serving a portion of a 10-year sentence in an earlier bank robbery.

Chase told Bollinger County deputies Saturday morning that he wanted to show them where the money was. He led them to a point about two miles south of the Crump community on Route U near the Cane Creek bridge.

Recovered were a loaded .38 special revolver Chase said he used in the holdup, 44 extra rounds of ammunication, and $9,391 in cash, all stored in an overnight bag. The bank reported that $9,410 was taken in the robbery.

A car stolen the day of the robbery in Cape Girardeau and positively identified as having been used in the crime was found in the woods weeks after Chase was arrested. But no evidence could be gleaned from the vehicle, officers said.

After the recovery of the loot and other items, Chase made a full confession to the deputies, Trooper Kenneth Howell, Bollinger County Prosecuting Attorney Kenneth Shrum and FBI Agent Douglas Rosenberger.

Rosenberger said Monday that a federal bank robbery warrant had been authorized against Chase.

O. J. HUCK

CHARLESTON — Dr. O. J. Huck, 69, died at 6 a.m. today of an apparent heart attack in his home at 802 State St.

He was born July 27, 1902 in Ste. Genevieve County. Dr. Huck, a chiropractor, moved to Charleston in 1938 to begin his practice. He was a member of St. Henry's Catholic Church, St. Joseph's Sodality, Knights of Columbus and Western Catholic Union.

On Oct. 25, 1925, he married Genevieve Braum, who survives.

Other survivors are one son, Dr. O. A. Huck of Portageville; four brothers. Ollie and Valentine Huck, both of Ste. Genevieve, Gilbert Huck of Flat River and Ralph Huck of Las Vegas, Nev.; three sisters, Mrs. Herman Weiler and Mrs. Edna Brahr, both of Ste. Genevieve, and Mrs. A. T. Basler of Fredericktown; and six grandchildren.

The body is in McMikle Funeral Home where friends may call after 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday in St. Henry's Catholic Church with the pastor, Msgr. Charles P. Schmitt, officiating.

Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

St. Henry's parish family will assemble at 8 p.m. in the McMikle chapel for recitation of the rosary.

HAROLD WILSON

WARDELL — Services were conducted today at 2 p.m. in First Baptist Church for Harold Wilson, 52, who died Sunday of natural causes at his home on Route One.

The Rev. Elven Hensley officiated. Burial followed in Wardell Memorial Cemetery with Jimmy Osburn Funeral Home in charge.

A retired cotton gin employe, Wilson was born Oct. 25, 1919 in Swift to M. D. Wilson, Sr. of Wardell and Annie Lucille Wilson who died Nov. 21, 1971. He married the former Betty Lou Warth Aug. 10, 1940 in Caruthersville.

In addition to his widow and father, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Allen E. Melton of St. Louis and Mrs. Voyne Kentner of Savannah, Tenn.; three brothers, Coy Wilson of Portageville, Jason Wilson of St. Charles and M. D. Wilson, Jr. of Caruthersville; four sisters, Mary Lou Baker of Oakland, Calif., Marie Barker of Jackson, Tenn., Mrs. Joe Palmer of Fremont, and Mrs. John Redman of St. Ann; and four grandchildren.

Highway Work Dispute Ends

HAYTI — The work dispute that resulted in a brief wildcat strike at the Interstate 55 project ended today as quickly as it began.

According to Sam Potashnick, attorney for R. B. Potashnick Construction Co., the strike "was resolved in accordance with terms of the contract between the construction firm and the operators union."

Work on the project, which forms the final link-up of the interstate between St. Louis and Memphis, was resumed this morning without further difficulty.

Chase Named In Federal Warrant

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Robert Chase, 23, of Chicago, was named Monday in a federal bank robbery warrant for the May 22 robbery of the Bollinger County Bank in Lutesville, Mo.

Chase led authorities to the stole money Saturday, Bollinger County police said. They said most of the $9,400 loot was recovered in an overnight bag on a county road near the holdup scene.

Chase was charged earlier in a county warrant and had been held in the county jail at Marble Hill.

Change Test Dates, Location

NEW MADRID — Vision tests and photographs for applicants for operator, chauffeur, renewal or duplicate licenses, beginning Aug. 1, will be changed to each Thursday and Friday at the New Madrid license bureau on the first floor in New Madrid County courthouse.

The tests now are given on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the sheriff's office.

Heckemeyer Speaks To Rotary Club

Tony Heckemeyer, state representative for the 159th District, spoke to Sikeston Rotary Club Monday night at Ramada Inn.

Heckemeyer said many people seeking public office "tell the public what is wrong with our state."

"This is the mark of a candidate who only knows what other people tell him and really can offer nothing but complaints without solutions," Heckemeyer said. "We should be aware of what is right with Missouri and observe the remarkable progress which has been made in our state."

Heckemeyer went on to say that progress in Missouri education in the last six years has been remarkable. The state has increased monies to the public schools by 137 per cent, higher education 201 per cent, vocational education 708 per cent, junior colleges 544 per cent, and these figures do not include this year's. A new medical school has been started in Kansas City, two fully funded four year branches of the University of Missouri in St. Louis and Kansas City have been started, also Joplin and St. Joseph have become the homes of two more four- year colleges. The kindergarten program has been put into operation all over the state with state and local funds, he added.

The mental health system, Heckemeyer said, has in only a few short years become a model for the entire country.

Heckemeyer is on the committee of miscellaneous resolutions, which directs study by legislative groups and has launched study into no fault insurance.

Heckemeyer told of the success of a battle he has personally waged in the appropriations committee and on the floor of the House to prevent the requirement that the new Highway Patrol Troop E headquarters be built at Poplar Bluff. He has maintained that the building should be built should be left open so all communities could compete for the site.

When asked about his campaign for re- election to the newly drawn 159th District, Heckemeyer said that it was the responsibility of a good citizen to select the man most suited to represent the people based on qualifications, experience and track record. When selecting a representative you are choosing your personal representative to stand as an adversary in the lawmaking body to protect you. It is the citizens duty to question the capabilities of each candidate to see if he can do the job, he stated.

After Heckemeyer's talk, Paul Jobe, Rotary president, announced that next week will be an "Anns Night".

Laretha harris entertained at the piano during dinner and Jim Huff, city manager, and Carroll Gerig of Flat River were club guests.

Wrap-around goggles or gray-tinted quality sunglasses are recommended by the Society for Visual Care as the best protection against glare. Although the eyes generally suffer no lasting damage from limited exposure to such glare, the harsh reflection of it can temporarily seriously diminish visual acuity and produce potentially dangerous conditions.
